TRUCKERS' STRIKE BLUES. John Svezia, owner and operator of Tony's Restaurant, 1504 Madison Ave., sits at his vacant counter Friday morning. He has experienced a 35-percent drop in business since the beginning of the Independent Truckers' Association strike, which began a week ago. The restaurant, in operation since 1951, is situated at the hub of a five-block area of truck dispatching offices and has been a popular stopover for local and over-the-road truckers for 15 years.

Strike slows trucking

By GEORGEANN MCGEE
of the Press-Record

Most truckers who own their rigs were apparently "staying out of operation" this weekend, according to a Granite City truck transport owner. And, as many drivers stayed home, roads in the Quad-City area remained free of violence in the path of the Independent Truckers' Association shut-down.

The U.S. Department of Transportation notes that violence seems to be diminishing nationwide and is predicting that by mid-week, truck traffic will increase substantially as the strike loses its momentum.

Meanwhile, three food markets surveyed here gave slightly different versions of how the trucking situation was affecting the consumer, since the trucking halt began a week ago in protest of hiked fuel prices and higher highway use taxes.

Wes Wells, owner of B & G Tri-City Truck and Transport, operates a combination freight service, repair shop and diesel fuel stop in the hub of the area's truck dispatching center lining State Street.

Wells owns both his own fleet of trucks and leases operator-owned trucks. Most of his company trucks were moving Friday, while none of the operator-owned trucks were on the road. "All the independents are down," Wells said, and reported his fuel and repair business has dropped about 95 percent.

A few blocks away, the business at Tony's Restaurant, 1504 Madison Ave., a place frequented primarily by steelworkers from the neighboring mill

Six additional weeks of pay approved for area unemployed

Governor James R. Thompson said Wednesday that Illinois will receive an additional six weeks of unemployment compensation under recently adopted federal regulations, a move that will make extended jobless benefits available for those who qualify for 55 weeks since the program began last year.

"With unemployment one of the biggest problems our citizens face, this is welcome news for the jobless of our state," said the governor. "Not only will persons who are presently receiving jobless aid continue to do so for six more weeks, but those who have exhausted their benefits and meet certain qualifications will get more help."

Thompson said the 13-week extended benefit program, which began March 7, 1982, was added to the regular 26-week State Unemployment Insurance Program that is funded by employers. The federal government and the state split the cost of the extended benefit program, he said.

Late last year another 10 weeks of jobless aid, called Federal Supplemental Compensation (FSC), was approved by the Reagan Administration and Congress. Wednesday's announcement is part of that program and brings to 55 the total number of weeks that unemployment benefits are available, Thompson said.

Under the changes in federal law enacted in December, the percentage of insured unemployed in Illinois rose above the six percent level Congress set for the extended benefit program, action that could enable more than 78,000 persons to receive aid.

The governor said that qualifications for the extended benefits are more stringent than for the 26-week unemployment compensation program. Persons applying for the extended benefits must have worked the equivalent of 20 or more weeks while they were employed prior to leaving their jobs, he said, and looked for other employment.

Persons interested in receiving the jobless benefits should contact their local Job Service Office, the governor said, adding that persons who exhausted their aid from the extended benefit program after June 1, 1982, may be eligible for the FSC program, which is entirely funded by the federal government.

The governor noted that should the rate of insured unemployed drop below the six percent level, the extended benefits announced Wednesday would be reduced to four weeks.

The Job Service office for this area is in American Village Shopping Center, Fehling and Nameoki roads.

'Tender care' goal keeps 2 junior highs open

By BILL WINTER
of the Press-Record

Grigsby Junior High School—initially on potential "hit lists" while the Granite City district was pondering money-saving closings—will remain open, along with Coolidge Junior High.

Grigsby successfully "dodged a bullet" because of parents' and officials' desire to avoid overcrowding of seventh and eighth graders.

Although all grades, kindergarten through high school seniors, are important, the junior high school years require an unusual degree of "tender, loving care" because they involve a difficult transition for students from elementary to secondary programs, local officials believe.

"Parents of toddlers sometimes talk about 'the terrible twos,'" referring to inquisitive two-year-olds who move about rapidly and always seem to be causing damage or encountering injury or danger.

"Schools' 'terrible two years' are considered to be the junior high school level, where 'some of the students are still playing with dolls and toys and others are falling in love,'" Granite City administrators and board members say.

Maturity, physical and otherwise, varies widely among 12, 13 and 14-year-olds, who are changing from being children to being "nearly grown up."

"To have assigned 1,500 or so 1983-84 junior high students to Coolidge could have 'created a monster' in terms of supervision, discipline and the overall academic environment, it was felt.

Instead, the group will be divided between Grigsby, located at Pontoon and Cargill roads, and Coolidge, situated on Nameoki Road between Fehling Road and Madison Avenue.

Junior high enrollments during the fall 1982 semester were about 625 at Coolidge, 590 at Grigsby and 425 at Prather, the latter figure not counting 160 Logan fifth and sixth graders assigned to the Prather building.

A nine-classroom wing of Coolidge will help accommodate the 2,900 high school students (ninth through 12th grades), all of whom will go to Granite City High School South next fall. Coolidge and South share the same mammoth campus.

North High will be closed and Prather

Junior High will be changed to an elementary school, housing the pupils from nearby Logan as well as from Johnson School and possibly part of the Emerson School enrollment.

Coolidge, the biggest of the junior high buildings, was opened in 1956 and additions were constructed there in 1963 and 1969.

Prather was opened in 1960 and was expanded in 1964. Grigsby was completed in 1968.

Because district-wide elementary class enrollments are smaller than those at the secondary level, decreases in junior high and high school enrollments are expected over the next few years.

With this trend in mind, school of-officials found it hard to justify continuing to operate two high schools. Enrollments this fall were 1,893 and 1,265 and, with January graduates deducted, the combined projection for September 1983 is below the 3,000 mark.

The belief was that, with each passing year, it would have become more and more difficult to rationalize increasingly-empty high schools. GCHS, now GCHS South, was built in 1960 and expanded in 1964, 1976, 1978, 1982, 1985, 1989, 1996 and 1971. GCHS North was opened in the fall of 1973.

The same situation has been developing at the junior high level, where the number of students no longer matches the facilities. The upper floor of Coolidge is not being utilized this year.

If current patterns prevail, officials may have to reconsider the junior high school situation in several years. Projections show Coolidge could handle the number of seventh and eighth grade pupils expected in 1986 or 1987.

Elementary schools to be closed in June are Emerson, opened in 1987, with an addition in 1989; Nameoki, 1925, with additions in 1938, 1950, 1955 and 1963; Lake, 1960, with a 1970 addition; Johnson, opened in 1972; and (new) Logan, 1955.

Oldest grade schools remaining open are Webster, built in 1907, with additions in 1913 and 1920; Marshall, 1928, with additions in 1955 and 1957; and Mitchell School, opened to students in 1937 and expanded in 1951, 1962 and 1964.

Citizens will meet on alternatives to school cuts

A public meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the Granite City Township Hall on possible alternatives to school cost cuts voted by the Board of Education last week.

"Concerned Parents and Taxpayers for Quality Education in Granite City School District Nine" are asking that elected officials, parents, teachers, taxpayers, businessmen, school administrators and school board members attend.

Plans for the meeting were announced by David L. Melton, a resident of the district who spoke against the cutbacks at the board meeting.

Melton said one of the purposes of Thursday night's meeting will be to decide whether an informal coalition of concerned persons should form an official group.

"We also plan to try and get a working relationship with the School Board. We want to try to understand," Melton related.

"I would like it to be a community effort to sit down and discuss the situation. We who arranged for the meeting are for quality education.

"There are some serious concerns. This is not intended as a vendetta."

Melton, not related to School

Treasurer Dewey Melton, is employed at McDonnell Douglas Corporation.

He said Friday he asked Superintendent of Schools B. J. Davis for a copy of the board's preliminary plan and the data used in deciding which recommendations should be accepted. He was refused, he said, adding that he feels he had a right to the information.

Asked by newsmen on the night of Feb. 1 for background documents and studies, the superintendent said he regards them as internal information rather than a matter of public record.

Melton has indicated that, with an opportunity to go over the theoretical alternatives, citizens might be able to suggest a better way of balancing school costs than the program that was decided upon by the board.

By a 5-2 vote, the board decided to consolidate the two high schools into one, merge the three junior high schools into two, and combine the 13 elementary schools into nine. More than 200 employees are to be honorably dismissed.

All academic and extracurricular programs are to be continued except for elementary band, which will no longer be taught in the daytime but will

Rebid Madison Ave. resurfacing

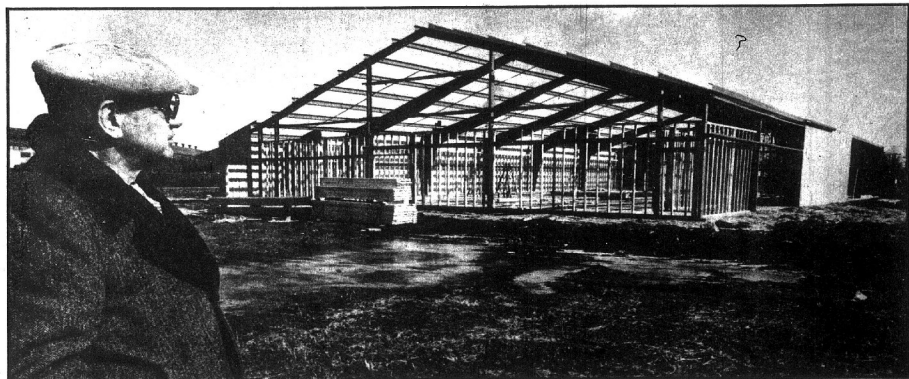

Madison and Granite City officials are hopeful that lower bids will be received tomorrow by the Illinois Department of Transportation for resurfacing Madison Avenue from Second Street in Madison to 20th Street in Granite City.

In January, Reese Construction Co. of Cahokia was the low bidder on the resurfacing of the 1.6 miles, bidding to do the work for $315,126. That bid, however, was rejected by IDOT as being too far over the engineer's estimate of $270,000 for the work.

This bid will be opened tomorrow in Springfield on the project, along with various other transportation improvements throughout the state costing an estimated $54 million.

Resurfacing of Madison Avenue from 20th Street to Nameoki Road also has qualified for federal funding. The federal government will pay for 70 percent of that estimated $400,000 project and Granite City has appropriated $105,000 of its future motor fuel tax revenues to pay the local share of the cost.

The work between 20th Street and Nameoki Road is expected to begin in the spring of 1984, while the resurfacing from Second to 20th streets could begin soon after a contract is awarded.

ASSESSING PROGRESS. Madison Amvets Post 204 Commander Vasil Graville looks over the construction of the post's future home Friday afternoon. The 80-by-110-foot structure, being built at 1700 Kennedy Drive, will house meeting rooms and a large hall which will be made available to the public. Graville is taking a series of photos at various stages of the construction, as a permanent record for the post.

EPA threatens sanctions due to air quality

Members of the Granite City Council have expressed concern about the impact of sanctions that may be imposed here by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) because the county did not meet the Dec. 31, 1982, clean-air deadline.

Five Madison County townships, including Granite City, Nameoki and Venice, were named Monday by EPA officials as violating particulate standards. Seven townships in St. Clair County also were named and the entire St. Louis metropolitan area is in danger of facing sanctions, including the loss of future road construction and air pollution control monies.

Both Madison and St. Clair counties were elevated to "tier two" status, which is the most serious, as being in violation of standards for particulates, the EPA announced last week.

City and industrial officials here claim that sanctions tacked on to the Clean Air Act by Congress are counterproductive and have argued that deadlines for meeting standards of the act are unreasonable.

With high unemployment in the area, one of the main concerns last week at the council meeting was the impact sanctions might have, because economic growth is needed to create new jobs.

"We're certainly going to need jobs," said Casner Skubish, First Ward alderman and chairman of the Aldermanic Air Pollution Committee.

Skubish questioned the "affect on new industries and new businesses" and suggested that Monroe Brewer, city engineer, meet with officials from the Collinsville regional office of the Illinois EPA, "to get the facts."

Despite the fear that sanctions could have a serious impact here, Skubish said he believes the area might receive a reprieve from the sanctions because "there are some types of postponements and referrals" available from the EPA.

The county has been cited for failing to meet ozone standards established in the Clean Air Act. The entire state has failed to implement the mandatory auto-emissions inspection program, claiming it is unnecessary and expensive.

Both Illinois and Missouri plan to appeal the federal EPA ruling by arguing that the decision is partially based on outdated evidence. Although they are charged with enforcing the rulings, EPA officials contend that the sanctions are counterproductive and blame Congress for tacking on prove an ozone compliance plan for the Metro-East area that was proposed by the EPA.

This summer, the federal EPA is expected to formally disapprove the ozone plan, bolstering sanctions suggested on the basis of present violations of particulate matter standards. With the anticipated disapproval of the ozone plan, Madison, St. Clair and Monroe counties are expected to be cited.

The townships cited in Madison and St. Clair counties are designated as violators of "total suspended particles" (TSP) standards. Such a designation means the counties could suffer moratoriums on construction of TSP-producing plants that require air-discharge permits.

Sanctions are possible in 142 other counties in 33 states where the pollution laws have been violated over an extended period.

Lowered standards for TSP violations, are expected to be released by U.S. EPA this year and those standards will decrease maximum levels which will only include particulate matter that enters the lungs.

Particulates are small solid particles and liquid droplets, as opposed to air pollutants that are gaseous in form. According to the Illinois Air Quality Report issued in 1981, "Particulate matter in the atmosphere consists of solids, liquids and liquids-solids in combination."

The report continues that, "one of the major problems associated with high concentrations of particulates is that the interaction between the particles, sunlight and atmospheric moisture can potentially result in climatic effects and diminished visibility (haze)." Particulates also play a major role in the formation of clouds and areas with high particulate levels often have more clouds and precipitation, the report said.

It is suggested in the report that a few particulates breathed by humans actually reach "the air sacs (alveoli)" and most are deposited in the bronchi and removed by the cilia within hours. Size of the particulate is a major factor in health effects, but "oxidation state, chemical composition, concentration and length of time in the respiratory system contribute to the health effects of particulates." Health effects include an association with increased respiratory diseases, including asthma, bronchitis and emphysema, cardiopulmonary disease (heart attack) and cancer.

TWO ARRESTED AFTER WINDOW IS BROKEN

Two Granite City men were arrested following an incident last week at Al's 320 Club in Madison, where they allegedly smashed the rear window of an automobile.

Robert Overturf, 24, and Michael W. Reed, both of 3846 Cleveland Blvd., were charged with criminal damage to property.

Witnesses told police that three occupants fled toward McCambridge Avenue in an automobile bearing Missouri plates after the incident. Police followed the vehicle east on McCambridge Avenue and saw it make a U-turn in the 2000 block of Sixth Street and turn left on McNair Avenue.

The vehicle was stopped at Fifth Street and McNair Avenue, where one occupant got out and ran between two houses. The other two occupants allegedly started to get out of the vehicle, but were stopped by police.

A large masonry hammer allegedly was taken from the automobile.

BREAK DOOR GLASS

A neighbor alerted police when he noticed a door open at the home of Russell Shaver, 2051 Rhodes St., Madison, last week. A door to the sun porch had been pried and dresser drawers were left open. An inventory was being taken to determine what items were missing.

Dixon seeks floor price for farmers

Senator Alan J. Dixon has introduced legislation to assure a floor price for farmers participating in the payment-in-kind program. The PIK program, which the U.S. has initiated as a trade agreement, allows the government to pay farmers in grain from federal stockpiles, instead of cash, if they agree to reduce their production in 1983.

Dixon's bill stipulates that grain turned over to farmers would be valued at no less than 85 percent of the loan rate for that particular commodity. "I believe it is essential that we provide some sort of security on the value of the surplus stocks the farmers receive," Dixon said.

"This program has the potential of drawing down vast 'grain surpluses' and stimulating farm prices. Its success will depend on the extent of farmer participation, which will be encouraged by this kind of security."

FILCOFF RECEIVES NTH QUALITY AWARD

Boris Filcoff, CLU, sales representative for the John Hancock Life Insurance Company, has received the national quality award for the 34th year.

He was presented the award at a luncheon meeting of the East Side Underwriters Association. The national quality award honors an insurance salesman who has maintained 90 percent persistency on all eligible policies they have sold in the past two years. Filcoff has attained the award for a longer period of time than anyone associated with the John Hancock firm in the U.S. and more times than any member of the East Side Life Underwriters Association.

Kathy Lloyd, 27, of 4062 Sara St., a passenger in a car operated by Donald E. Lloyd, 27, of the Sara address, sustained an injury in a two-car mapap last week on Pontoon Road near Torrance lane. She declined immediate medical attention. Driver of the second vehicle involved, Sheila J. Estrada, 25, of 2099 Pontoon Road, allegedly struck the rear of the Lloyd vehicle, which was halted behind a bus. Both vehicles were east-bound at the time of the mishap.

DUI arrests by state police up 43.3 percent

Citing a 43.3 percent increase in DUI (Driving Under the Influence) arrests during 1982, Lieutenant James O. Stever, acting District 11 commander, pointed out that the "Police For Results (PFR)" program, instituted by State Police Superintendent R. J. Miller, was very effective. Lieutenant Stever said troopers made 352 arrests for DUI during 1982 in the five county area District 11 covers. That number represents a 43.3 percent increase over 1981, when 312 motorists were arrested for the same offense.

Lieutenant Stever also said 21 fewer motorists were killed in traffic accidents during 1982 than in 1981, and attributed this mostly to the increased number of DUI arrests and the removal of those drivers from the highways.

COUNTY NABS TWO ON DUI CHARGES

Madison County police arrested two local men on charges of driving while under the influence of alcohol (DUI) after they were parked on roadsides last week.

Thomas R. Buckingham, 30, of 2 Eastgate Drive, Fulton Beach, was arrested after police alleged that they saw a vehicle parked on the roadside at State Aid Route 35 and Route 111 and found Buckingham sleeping in the front seat. Upon awakening him, police alleged they could smell liquor on his breath. He agreed to take a breathalyzer test and was taken to the Madison County Jail.

Michael N. Billick, 62, of Route 2, was arrested and charged with DUI, illegal transportation of alcohol and driving too fast for existing conditions.

Police alleged they saw a vehicle on the side of the road at Old Alton Road and Chain of Rocks Road. Billick was in the vehicle and police said they asked him if he was injured and alone. He said he was not injured and was alone. Billick allegedly refused to take a breathalyzer test and was taken to the Madison County Jail.

TRUCK BURGLARY

Herman Seiffert of Elvin, Mo., told Madison police at 8:45 a.m. Saturday that a thief entered his truck and stole gas and tools valued at $365. The vehicle was parked in the lot at Krieger Trucking, 1600 Collinsville Ave., he said.

Lotto winnings may total several million

Immediately after the winning daily game numbers are drawn on Saturday, Feb. 19, the Illinois State Lottery will draw seven more numbers to launch Lotto, a new game which can make individual players multimillionaires, it was announced Friday.

Seven players of a similar game in Pennsylvania have won more than $2 million each, with the top prize so far reaching about $5.5 million.

In New York State, four lotto players have won more than $5 million each, and two New Jersey lotto players have won $4.2 million and $3.5 million.

Michael J. Jones, Illinois lottery superintendent, announced that Lotto will go on sale throughout Illinois on Monday, Feb. 14, at all on-line Daily Game and Pick 4 agents.

After the first week, tickets will go on sale for each Saturday night's selection the morning after the previous drawing. Selection of winning numbers will be televised live each Saturday at 6:55 p.m. over WGN, Chicago, which is available on cable channel F here.

Jones said the grand prize pools can grow to multimillion-dollar levels beginning when there is no grand prize winner in a weekly draw, 40 percent of that week's total prize pool is "rolled over," added to the total of any rolled-over amounts from previous weeks, and allocated for the next weekly Lotto grand prize pool.

To win the grand prize, a player will have matched the six winning numbers out of those from 01 to 40 — drawn during the weekly selection.

If only one person matches the numbers, that player will win the entire grand prize pool, a minimum of $1 million. Multiple winners will share the actual prize pool.

The seventh number drawn each week, designated the "alternate number," will be used only when there is no grand prize winner in a particular drawing to select alternate grand prize winners.

Those winners are the players who match five out of the six winning numbers, plus the alternate number.

There are also second-place prizes for players who match five of the six winning numbers, and third-place prizes for players who match four.

Lotto will be the lottery's only pari-mutuel game in which the actual prizes are in individual can win depend on the total weekly sales for the game, and the number of players who qualify for each prize category.

The lottery's Daily Game, Pick 4 and Instant Games all pay a set prize amount regardless of the lottery's sales that week or the number of people who won prizes.

To play Lotto, a player receives a free official "bet slip" from an agent. On the slip are eight sets of the numbers 1 through 40.

The player can play a maximum of eight Lotto games on each slip or a minimum of two — and the player must play in two-game increments, paying $1 to play each set of two games.

To bet, a player marks six numbers in as many sets of games as he wishes to play. When the slip is complete, the agent places it in an electronic "reader" in the computer terminal where the bet is recorded.

The terminal printer produces an official lotto ticket which shows the numbers selected, and the date for which the ticket applies.

Although lottery officials will not know the identity of a specific grand prize winner until that winner identifies himself, they will know through the computers how many, if any, players matched the six winning numbers, and the size of the grand prize pool.

The Lottery will announce each Monday morning the winning number of grand prize winners from the previous Saturday, and the amount of their prizes. It will also announce each day the amount of the total estimated Lotto grand prize as of that day.

Lotto winners can collect their prizes of up to $600 at 9 a.m. on each Monday from any agent. Those who win more than $600 must file a claim with their agent.

Grand prize winners must make their claims at a district office. Officials suggest that grand prize winners sign their tickets immediately, and phone the lottery at its toll-free number (1-800-252-8646) for further instructions.

Grand prize winners are paid in five, ten, 15- or 20-year installments, depending on the number of grand prize winners and the total amount in the pool.

The total Lotto prize pool will be approximately 50 percent of total sales for the week. The remaining 50 percent goes to the State of Illinois general revenue fund to help support education and other human service programs, as well as to the agents in sales commissions, and for other administrative costs.

ARREST MAN AFTER RIFLE INCIDENT

Responding to a report of a man with a rifle in front of Fletcher's Grill in Venice Thursday at 12:45 p.m., Venice police talked to Theodore Russell Turner, 37, of 1108 Douglas Ave., Madison, left Garrett's Cut Rate Liquors and returned to the area with a gun.

Police allegedly saw Turner at 212 Weaver St., but did not find a gun in his possession. He allegedly told police the gun was inside the above address. It was found, but was not loaded. Turner was charged with not having a firearm owners identification card (FOID).

Witnesses said Turner was inside Garrett's when he started cursing and throwing bottles. He then allegedly picked up a chair and hit Harold Wright on the side of his face, cutting him in the process. When Wright asked him what he was doing, Turner allegedly accused another man of stealing his coat and apologized for hitting Wright.

Turner allegedly threatened to kill everybody inside of Garrett's. Wright told authorities that he followed Turner outside and saw him come from the Weaver Street address with the gun. Turner was released Thursday at 1:25 p.m.

Madison accepting gasoline bids

The city of Madison is accepting bids on gasoline to be used by city vehicles. Bids will be accepted at the Madison City Hall, 1529 Third St., until 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, Feb. 15.

Bid specifications are available at the city hall and will be considered on specific octane ratings which various vehicles require.

The city council will open the bids at the next council meeting, but reserves the right to reject any and all bids, officials said.

COLA TAKEN FOUND, FOUR ARE ARRESTED

Two cases of canned cola were stolen from a Pepsi truck while the driver was making a delivery at the Bellemore Village shopping center Thursday. Two 16-year-old boys were captured by Granite City police, who recovered the soda from a nearby hiding place.

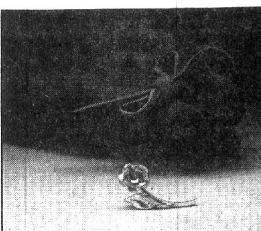

Later in the day, a boy aged 16 and a boy 15 also were arrested in the case. Charged with theft, the four were released to their parents pending a court hearing.

Think all checking packages are as alike as peas in a pod?

Look again.

A lot of banks have "packaged" services and benefits into a special checking plan. Most of those checking packages give you several standard services—like unlimited checking and personalized checks at no extra charge.

The Club gives you all those things, too. But that's where the similarity ends.

The Club is different because it gives you more than an ordinary checking account.

For instance, not every checking package offers accidental death insurance. The Club does—$10,000 worth.

Most checking packages also offer discounts—sometimes useful, sometimes not. The Club gives you national discounts with major companies. On hotel rooms, rental cars, books, theme park admission charges—all kinds of products and services your family can use. And there are new discounts in every issue of Clubmate, The Club member newsletter. All for one low monthly fee.

There you have it. All checking packages are not the same. We think The Club is a real bargain.

THE CLUB. Checking like it ought to be.

Periodic school cost adjustment

It was inevitable that questions would arise in the wake of the sweeping school spending cuts announced last week.

One of the issues being discussed is whether the Granite City district could have avoided such a severe problem by cutting back earlier, such as the summer of 1980, 1981 or 1982.

In retrospect, if the district could close three big schools in 1979 and six major centers in 1983, there probably could have been some closings in between those years. Occupancy did not drop to 60 percent of capacity overnight. But school consolidations always are highly unpopular.

With personnel consuming 87 percent of school expenditures, the size of the Community Unit District Nine staff is an important factor. And the employees' income level obviously looms large in the overall picture.

One citizen at a recent public meeting questioned how the district could justify raises over the past four years of about 40 percent, while simultaneously watching operating debt climb into the millions of dollars.

The possibility of accepting salary "givebacks" in the current school year was mentioned by a Board of Education member at two different board meetings in 1982-83 without any visible favorable reaction from employees.

For the district's employee groups, it will be necessary that they negotiate soon on more raises, a pay freeze, or pay cuts; all the school groups' agreements expire prior to the 1983-84 year.

If per-person costs were less, the schools could afford more employees than otherwise, but it would not help individuals solve their own families' budget problems.

This was one of the issues faced by Chrysler auto workers—how many jobs to "buy back"—and it is noteworthy that many people at Granite City Steel have accepted pay reductions in the past year, when National Steel Corporation lost $482 million. Negotiations are starting today on possible pay concessions by steelworkers.

We do not know what course should be followed by the school system and its staff. It does seem clear that citizens, seeing the sweeping nature of the June 1983 cutbacks, may favor more frequent "fine-tuning" of school costs in future years.

Item changes in federal bills?

U.S. Senator Alan J. Dixon so far has conducted himself well but we have reservations about his February 1983 legislative proposal—a constitutional amendment authorizing the president to disapprove or reduce individual items of appropriations.

Modeled after a provision in the 1970 Illinois State Constitution, the plan would permit an item veto or item reduction, except for appropriations affecting the judiciary or legislative branches.

The two-thirds vote in both houses required to override an entire bill would remain unchanged. Vetoes or reductions of individual items of appropriations could be overridden by a simple majority of members under the Dixon plan.

Sen. Dixon commented, "This measure was introduced in response to recent deadlocks between Congress and the president over spending bills in which major activities of the government have been on the brink of closing down."

"With the adoption of this amendment, a president would no longer be forced to sign a bill containing several provisions with which he disagrees, or to veto a bill with many 'must' items in it.

"Most importantly, the item veto would bring forth a greater sense of fiscal discipline and could save billions of dollars annually."

It is an intriguing line of thought that may justify discussion in the Senate, but that discussion needs to include the experience in Illinois, where somewhat broader amendatory veto power has been abused by a succession of governors.

An Illinois chief executive can meet behind closed doors with a handful of his advisers. With only limited input, he then can effectively negate long legislative deliberations, which included committee study and the testimony of experts questioned by committee members at public hearings.

Although governmental executives, whether a governor or a president, have good intentions, the amendatory procedure can distort the concept of divided governmental power—and render somewhat pointless the idea of having a legislative branch.

Centuries ago, Roman senators learned the hard way that a balance of power is much preferable to weakened legislative authority and expanded executive power.

FCC 'luvs' contemporary music

We note that, after much agonizing, the Federal Communications Commission has reversed itself and granted an Illinois broadcaster's request to use as station letters WSEX.

Nothing off-color is to be aired, the owners say; contemporary music will be played. The call letters are viewed primarily as an attention-getting device, and they seem to be succeeding.

The Arlington Heights station in the Chicago area, formerly WTCO-FM, said the commission ought not make itself the judge of what is or is not in good taste.

Whatever the merits of that assertion, the FCC could not hide the fact that it already had authorized WGAY, WPOT, KKKK, KISS, KINK, KOKE and WLUV.

How to finance indigents' care?

Townships here and elsewhere in Illinois are breathing a collective sigh of relief now that a circuit court has temporarily blocked the governor's effort to force towns to pay for Aid to the Medically Indigent (AMI).

An Illinois Supreme Court justice later ruled, on Feb. 2, that the governor can proceed to reduce education and medical aid, but a spokesman said the administration will not do so until the case has been heard by the full Supreme Court. In the meantime, the governor will lay off some employees at agencies under his control.

The state admittedly is in a severe financial squeeze. The governor already has hit schools and hospitals hard with legislatively authorized fiscal axe wielding.

The townships want to help but point out that the task is far beyond their financial means. They had no chance to voice factual information or suggestions before the cutoff was announced.

The timing of the state action caught the townships a year or two behind in the task of appropriating and levying funds of such proportions for such purposes.

As decided by the governor a short time earlier, state financing was to have ended Feb. 1 for the medical and hospital claims of AMI recipients eligible for townships' general assistance. Caught in the middle were 21,000 Illinoisans who do not qualify for other types of medical aid.

State officials say they just don't have the $160 million that was covered by a circuit judge's order barring various emergency budget cuts. And the budget bureau said last week the state is likely to be short not only the $160 million but another $255 million.

Officials at Springfield concede they didn't check on whether the townships had $55 million available for indigent medical costs. But they went ahead anyway, apparently to get the General Assembly's attention.

If there is to be a timely solution which does something more than just halting health care and other services, it would appear that the Assembly does have more tools at its disposal than those "creatures of the state government," the townships.

Instead of just "passing the buck" to the governor—as they did in December when they approved "do whatever you want to do" budgetary power—legislators ought to deal directly with the topic of financing the services that they mandate.

In view of recently recommended budget cuts, senior citizens at the Granite City Township Hall last week were asked how they felt about President Reagan's stand on the Social Security and Medicare programs. Their reactions follow:

Bud Strunk, Granite City

"How does he expect to help the budget by withholding our Social Security increase for six months? There are a lot of other avenues where he could save more money without affecting Social Security."

Elizabeth McCoy, Granite City

"As far as the (Social Security) cost-of-living increase, we're not going to get, goes, I'll go along with that. But where is it going to stop? What are we going to do?"

Marie Stanek, Granite City

"I'm willing to give up the cost-of-living increase, but I don't think they should up our (utility) bills on us. The government officials always give themselves raises, but they should take the cuts, too."

Rose Mary Breyer, Granite City

"I don't mind that he is going to stop the (Social Security cost-of-living) increase for us, but the government officials shouldn't get raises either. It seems like everything he does hurts the common people or the poor people."

Trustee supports electing rate commission

To the Editor:

I have received many complaints concerning the Illinois Power electrical and natural gas rate hikes. I understand other officials have also. I will relate to those interested in the problem what I have learned, mostly from news articles and attending the hearing in Granite City.

I only wish there could be a solution, but we may not be able to change what has been done in the past. We can, of course, be alerted for the future.

Of the 800,000 electric and gas customers, came massive public objection (my own included) to the Illinois Power rate increases. Several petition drives, trips by city fathers around the IP area and hearings, didn't seem to stop the increases.

If only we had known in 1979 that we now know to be fact, we may have won the battle, or at least tried harder. According to several news articles (and that's how we learn what is going on), utilities can charge customers for new plants before the stations are producing electricity, an Illinois Appeals Court ruled in a decision.

The Justices ratified the Illinois Commerce Commission's unprecedented 1979 decision to let Illinois Power charge rates based on part of the cost of constructing a nuclear plant at Clinton.

The Fourth District Court Appeals for Central Illinois, based in Springfield, made the ruling the first of January, 1982. The news releases go on to say the Commerce Commission broke new ground by allowing Illinois Power to include $97 million of the cost of building its Clinton atomic generating station in the base on which it figures consumers' rate.

Before that ruling, the commission had barred utilities from charging customers for a new power plant until it had begun producing electricity. Illinois Power had asked that $240 million of Clinton's construction work in Progress (WIP) cost be included in the rate-base.

I respect the way a member of the Consumer Energy Council put it. He stated, "What (the court) is saying, basically, is that the utility companies can go out and build anything they want, they can mismanage the building programs much as they want and, if they get into trouble, they can over their cost, the consumers are going to have to pay for it."

Consumer and anti-nuclear activist groups fought the Illinois Power rate increase request in hearings before the Commerce Commission.

They contended that construction of the Clinton nuclear plant was mismanaged, would cost more than Illinois Power's estimate of $1.3 billion, would not be complete by 1982, as Illinois Power predicted, and that utility customers should not be charged for the plant before it was completed.

The company has since boosted the plant's estimated costs to more than $1.8 billion and delayed its projected startup to mid 1985.

It seems we lost the battle before we all knew what was even going on. Thanks for letting me review the news for those that may have forgotten. It did help prove the need for an elected Commerce Commission, rather than an appointed one.

Urges yes vote on Venice waterslide project

To the Editor:

For the residents of the Venice Park District, it is time to make a decision. The Venice Park District Board of Commissioners, after careful, thoughtful deliberation, has voted to place before you a very important issue that needs your immediate attention. It was decided that on April 10, we would seek your approval on making it possible for the board to issue bonds for the construction of a waterslide.

In making your decision, I know the thought of higher taxes will come to surface, and that is what I would like to address here. The waterslide project is estimated at $200,000. This includes the purchase and installation of the slide, parking lot, lighting and game facilities.

The refunding of the bond proceeds will require a $30,000 tax levy annually for approximately 10 years. In order to meet this bond obligation, our taxes will have to be raised. At a district-wide assessed valuation of $20,000,000, we estimate the tax impact will be 15-cents per $100 assessed valuation. That is, if your property is assessed at $5,000 then your tax will increase by $7.50.

It doesn't take an economist to figure out the amount of return you will get on such a small investment. Just for the next four years, your children will have something to keep them busy during the summer months. For less than $10 per year, you can help provide this meaningful recreation for our children and, I might add, for yourself as well.

This project will generate revenues from use fees to cover the cost of operation and provide a substantial profit, which will be used to reduce subsequent years' tax levies. The waterslide project will also be beneficial to other commercial businesses in the area, since it will be open to the public. The expected 30,000 persons or so that will use the slide will provide needed sales to our merchants. Also, the city of Venice will benefit from it in terms of increased bridge fees from St. Louis users and increase sales tax revenues.

Just think a mere $10 investment will do all this. But wait, I haven't mentioned the fact that the Park District will be able to employ at least five to 10 additional employees during the summer months, thereby providing a few of the many needed jobs in this area.

Like you, I am a homeowner and I don't like paying taxes either, however, when I look around this city and see how it is deteriorating from crime, lack of commerce, substandard housing and the like, I see this waterslide issue as a bold challenge that has far-reaching benefits for all concerned.

Won't you vote yes on April 12?

JAMES L. HARRELL
Concerned resident of the Venice Park District

Seek business

To the Editor:

I read an article in the newspaper about the proposed reopening of the A.O. Smith plant. Since I feel jobs are the first step in the return of the good business in Granite City, I feel the city should advertise all vacant industrial buildings in the city, hoping that more business would move into the city.

be offered after-school if there is sufficient demand for it.

When David Melton obtained permission to talk at the Feb. 1 board session, he said budget problems have been developing since 1979 and cannot be resolved in one year.

He estimated annual school district revenue at $24 million and expenditures at $25.5 million as of June 1982; if the district now has costs of $29.5 million or more, it would be a 22.9 percent increase, Melton commented.

"I agree that you can't borrow yourself out of debt," he told the board, adding that if there had been a 1981-82 pay freeze it might have enabled the schools to avoid going "$3 million into the red."

He said he objects to the school cut-back plan because it could deprive students of needed programs. Some of the board members disagreed, noting that they had avoided eliminating courses and clubs.

Melton said he was unhappy that Supt. Davis had said the district's administrative staff might not have time to prepare testimony for a State Board of Education public hearing at 1 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 9, at the State Board office, 100 N. 1st St., Springfield.

Davis said the district has been in close touch with state proposals to reduce educational "mandates" and will continue to advise legislators and state officials of the district's viewpoint.

He noted that administrators have been devoting long hours to cost reduction studies.

A report included in the Feb. 1 Granite City school agenda by Warren Collins, administrative assistant for instructional services, related that the state education board during the past 18 months has been developing a definition of schooling and also analyzing all state-ordered educational programs.

Collins said final recommendations of the state's Planning and Policy Committee could have a direct impact on Granite City and, if enacted, would provide much greater flexibility here.

He said it is proposed to remove the kindergarten through twelfth grade daily physical education requirement, which the state has found to be unenforceable.

"The new proposal would require K-12 physical education for all students, but without the time and frequency allocation currently required," Collins said.

"Physical education for grades 11 and 12 would become elective to the students. We would be required to provide it as an elective."

"A driver education mandate proposal would repeat the current requirement for both classroom and behind-the-wheel training in the secondary school curriculum. Districts could elect to keep this as part of the curriculum, and would be allowed to contract for the program."

"The bilingual education mandate proposal would not have a direct effect on our district. It allows greater local control."

"The special education mandate proposal is lengthy and will require extensive study. Some of the proposals should help us on an expense basis. The removal of required class sizes perhaps would be the most noteworthy," Collins concluded.

A proposed state plan on the education of handicapped children will be disclosed Wednesday and public hearings on it have been set for Feb. 25 in Springfield and Feb. 26 in Chicago.

Regarding school mandates, Wednesday's hearing in Springfield will be followed by a similar meeting Feb. 23 in Chicago.

Chemetco seeks special permit for slag pile

At a public hearing Thursday at the Chemetco plant on Route 3, just north of Mitchell, called by the Madison County Zoning Board of Appeals, residents living near the plant voiced concern whether surrounding land and water supplies are being contaminated by a nearby slag pile.

Concern about chemicals in the slag, a byproduct of remelting scrap copper, prompted the hearing and, despite freezing temperatures and a bitter wind, about 20 persons attended.

Many Granite Cityans are employed at the plant, which has about 135 employees.

Zoning board members told Chemetco officials at the start of the hearing that the company apparently is in violation of a county zoning ordinance and noted that, although the plant is in an area zoned for heavy industry, a special use safety permit is required for slag storage.

The slag covers about two acres of company property and has been stored at that site for years.

Chemetco officials said they would apply for the special use permit. Should a permit be denied by the Madison County Board, however, the decision would be appealed through the courts or could result in possible closing of the plant, an official said.

Flannery said the slag includes copper, lead, tin and sand and often is sold to other companies to be used in the manufacture of insulation, road bedding and sand blasting material.

Despite the fact that some of the slag is sold, the size of the pile continues to grow, it was noted.

Rob St. Louis man at gunpoint

Tyrone Evans, 31, St. Louis, came to Venice police headquarters at 11:40 a.m. Saturday and reported that several hours earlier he was robbed by a man armed with a pistol.

Evans told police the incident occurred at 3 a.m. that day when he and another man, also from St. Louis, were walking in front of apartments in the 300 block of Weaver Street, Venice, and were jumped by three men.

One of the robbers held a pistol and the trio stole $27 in cash and his car keys, he said.

Evans got his vehicle started and drove home, returning to Venice in the daylight hours. He was asked to return Monday and make a further statement.

LOCATE STOLEN CAR

A blue 1980 auto stolen from St. Louis Thursday was located by Granite City police that afternoon. Found parked in the 2600 block of Iowa Street, the car had front end damage and apparently struck a green vehicle. The left front window was shattered and the ignition had been punched out.

This week honors Future Homemakers

"Future Homemakers of America — An Investment in Youth" is the theme for National FHA-HERO Week, celebrated by Future Homemakers of America as part of Vocational Education Week, Feb. 6 through 12.

During the week, FHA-HERO members focus on how vocational education and Future Homemakers of America — part of home economics education prepare them for the future.

In a nationwide celebration, 400,000 young women and men will highlight the leadership and decision-making skills they have developed through projects related to family life concerns, community involvement and personal growth.

FHA-HERO members — students in home economics or home economics-related occupations classes through grade 12 — are concerned and doing something about teen pregnancy, drug and alcohol abuse, care for handicapped and elderly persons, teen nutrition and fitness, sex stereotyping, leadership development, career preparation and community service.

Using a peer education approach (teens teaching teens) members develop and carry out projects based on their own needs and concerns. Two nationwide projects called "The Student Body" and "Families and Futures" are examples of how FHA-HERO members have reached more than four million other teens. Student and was converted to Central School in 1921.

Central was a seventh and eighth grade center before being razed in 1973, when North High was opened and the other junior high schools transferred ninth graders to the two high schools.

The Central site was turned over to Granite City Township, which established its office building and senior citizen center. Quad-City special education headquarters are located there but may be moved to a school building in about 18 months.

Of the schools phased out of operation in the fall of 1979, McKinley dates back to 1906, Washington to 1902 and Stallings to 1926.

Washington, currently a daytime Bellevue Area College center, was expanded in 1904, 1911 and 1920. Stallings additions were built in 1936, 1950 and 1959.

Also closed in 1979 was the original Logan School, built in 1913 and now a pre-school center operated by the Head Start program.

In its decision to reduce costs due to budgetary imbalances, the school district this winter has been describing the closings as consolidations.

This will be put to the test when plans are formulated for the combined high school, blending the best of the current South and North programs.

Many North students are devastated by the scheduled shutdown of their school, but officials are determined to provide the instruction, extracurricular formal, supervision and facilities for an effective high school program.

Students hope to participate in the dialogue over such matters as student government, activities, teams, band units and recognition of pupils' individual identity and achievements.

How to staff the high school and the other 11 buildings will occupy the administration and board in the coming weeks.

A tentative 1983-84 school district budget is to be considered on Tuesday, Feb. 15.

Once decisions have been made on next year's assignments for present administrators, some of whom will switch administrative jobs or return to teaching, the 1983-84 facilities and other staffs will be determined. Honorable dismissals dated in June are to be announced on March 22.

Lions Club will help blind with bike-a-thon

On Saturday, April 9, the Pontoon Beach Lions Club will join thousands of Lions Clubs from throughout the world in a symbolic "Journey for Sight" to aid the blind and visually impaired.

Since its founding in 1917, Lions Clubs International has become the world's largest service club organization, with more than 1.3 million members in 156 countries and geographical areas, and it has become widely known for its sight programs. Clubs operate or support most of the world's eye banks, dog guide training schools, eye research centers and vocational training centers. In addition, Lions Clubs provide many services directly to individuals in their own communities.

On April 9, the members of the Pontoon Beach Lions, Lionness, and Leo Clubs, along with their friends and families, will ride in a Bike-a-thon along the Madison County Nature Trail. The ride will be for 20 miles, starting and ending at the Pontoon Beach Lion's Den. In the weeks ahead, the group will be asking people in the community to support riders, either by pledging a nominal amount of money for each mile they ride or by actually riding in the bike-a-thon. This is not a race against time.

Each participant will receive a "Lions Journey for Sight" T-Shirt and prizes will be awarded to the bikers who collect the most money in pledges.

There will be a light meal for all participants served at the Lion's Den immediately after the bike-a-thon.

Persons interested in helping the Lions by riding or becoming pledgers are asked to attend the sign-up day meeting on Saturday, March 5 at the Lions Den II, 3901 Lake Drive in Pontoon Beach, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. or call Bob Fleming at 876-0361.

SWERVES INTO LANE, FACES CHARGE

After allegedly almost hitting a Madison County Sheriff's Department squad car George A. Bell, 30, of 4161 Division St., was arrested last week and charged with driving under the influence (DUI) of intoxicating liquor.

A Madison County officer said he was driving on Pontoon Road near Broadview Lane when he observed a vehicle three to four carlengths in front of him as it left the roadway and swerved toward the right shoulder to avoid a vehicle approaching in that lane of traffic.

The approaching vehicle again swerved into the lane of traffic and almost struck the officer's vehicle. He said he turned around and pursued the vehicle about a half mile and observed it crossing the center line.

Several oncoming vehicles had to leave the roadway to avoid being struck, authorities said. The vehicle was stopped at Pontoon Road and Village Lane. Bell allegedly got out of the vehicle, staggered to the left side and assumed the search position. The officer said he was still in the vehicle and had not yet approached or spoken to Bell.

He said he told Bell it was not necessary for him to assume the search position and asked for Bell's driver's license. The officer allegedly told Bell to remove his license from his wallet. Bell agreed to take a breathalyzer test at county jail.

Two other occupants in the Bell vehicle revealed that one of them, Mark Hiltzsch, 22, of 3205 Maryville Road, was wanted on a warrant for failure to appear in court. He and Bell were taken to the Madison County Jail.

Such drastic measures need not be taken in order to change eating behavior. The following realistic health rules and food control methods, reported by the Health Insurance Institute of New York, will do much to improve your life style and state of health:

Your 'life style' may be hazardous to your health

By GERALDINE L. BOWER, Ph.D.

University of Illinois Extension Adviser

The American life style is a major health hazard, according to a comprehensive government report on the state of American health.

The list of diseases of the American life style" cited by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare is headed by the intake of rich foods — a contributor to the nation's toll of heart disease, respiratory ailments and diabetes.

One obvious way to alter your life style is through eating less and eating more selectively. But how do you turn off from all that rich food?

There are those who try pill-popping, hypnosis, wiring jags, or lugging 50 pound bags of sand from room to room.

Others simply eat nothing but rice, cottage cheese or lettuce and/or fast on a half pint of water a day. The trouble with these crash or fast diets is that they may do more damage than good.

In addition to affecting the liver and kidneys, say doctors, a sudden sharp reduction in calories may force the body to break down irreplaceable muscle tissue.

A currently suggested method of staying away from calorie-rich foods is through behavior therapy or change, keyed to establishing good food habits and breaking bad ones via a self-punishment, reward, or other conceived system.

For example, if you have succeeded in resisting your favorite candy, or banana creme pie, your reward may be a pleasant thought — such as the image of yourself asvelte and sought-after by parties or as simply able to avoid the "stuffed into your clothes" look.

Some people prefer the punishment approach. For example, a 24-year-old Dayton, Ohio, man who weighed 350 pounds became a slim 165 in three years and boasted a new hobby of being able to get into the bathtub.

Arrest visitors from S. Dakota

Responding to a disturbance call at 3811 Kirkpatrick Homes at 1:55 a.m. Sunday, several officers arrived at the scene to find a melee in progress involving about 15 people, many of whom were related to each other.

Officers said those who were not fighting were attempting to restrain those who were and noted half of those present were visitors from South Dakota.

An effort was made to convince the visiting relatives to depart for the night, but no one appeared to be convincing the combatants resumed arguing, reports said.

One man, Vernon L. Odell Jr., 22, of Bryant, S.D., was being restrained by his father from entering the apartment again, but the older man was physically unable to stop him and officers radioed for additional assistance.

Odell Jr. was then wrestled by force from the apartment by three officers and his father.

Meanwhile another visiting South Dakota, Robert E. Odell, 23, of Watertown, S.D., allegedly began interfering with the arrest of Vernon Odell Jr. and, despite efforts of other family members to restrain him, he made contact with one of the officers and was placed in a squad car under arrest.

After this occurred, Vernon Odell Jr. became increasingly violent. It was alleged, and strong force was needed to gain control of the situation, reports said.

He was charged with battery, resisting arrest and disorderly conduct and was taken to St. Elizabeth Medical Center, where he was examined and admitted.

Robert Odell was charged with resisting arrest and obstructing a peace officer.

While officers were still at the scene, Vernon Odell Sr., showed signs of illness and an ambulance was called. He was taken to St. Elizabeth Medical Center, where he was treated and later was released.

North grabs 41st consecutive victory

Steelers defeat South; finish season undefeated

By ROGER KRAMER
of the Press-Record

GRANITE CITY — Granite City North's wrestling team had two big incentives to beat Granite City South in their final dual meet Thursday.

Since Granite City North will be closed next year, this was the final dual meet between the two schools, and the Steelers wanted to finish the rivalry as winners.

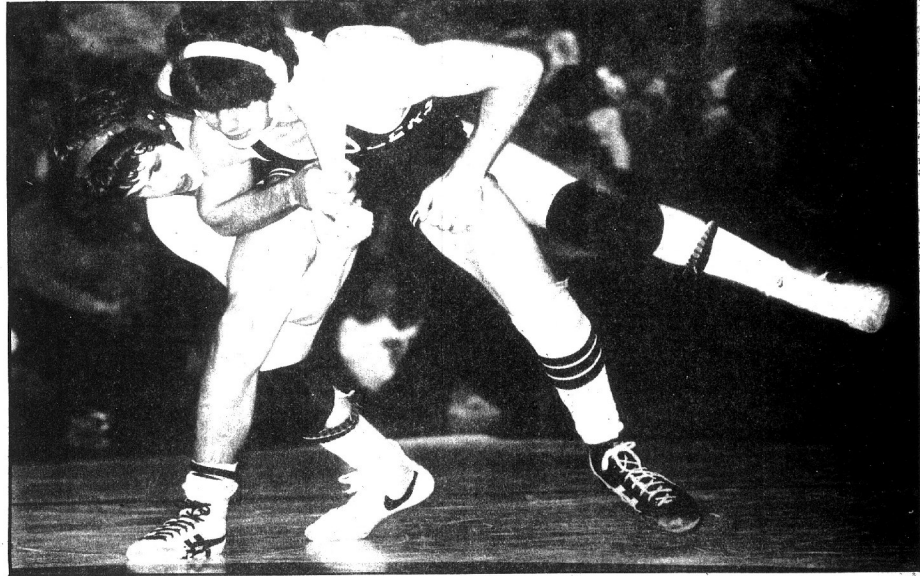

The other big reason was North's undefeated streak. Since the beginning of the 1981-82 wrestling season, North won 40 straight dual matches. The to the match, was expected to be the big favorite against Kramer, 13-13.

However, a tactical mistake by Hitchcock allowed Kramer to capitalize quickly. Hitchcock dived for the legs of the heavier Kramer, and Kramer went for the takedown, and eventually the pin.

"You don't dive for a guy who is much heavier than you," Schmitt said. "I'm sure Hitchcock will get much better and won't do it the next time."

North's other pin wasn't quite a surprise. Colin Davis, a senior, pinned South's Darrin Singleton, a freshman,

GOING FOR THE TAKEDOWN. Granite City South's Darrin Hasty (background) tries to lift Mark Whitaker of Granite City North for a takedown. Whitaker blocked this attempt, but Hasty eventually got the takedown. However, Whitaker won the match 5-4 and North won the final intra-city meet 44-10.

"We wanted to go out a winner... We wanted to win it for Coach Whitaker and go two straight seasons undefeated. When we heard North was closing, we wanted to go out winners."

John Morris
Steelers wrestler

Steelers definitely wanted to end the streak with their 41st win.

Those incentives, along with North's edge in wrestling experience, gave the Steelers a 44-10 win over the Warriors at Memorial Gymnasium. North finished the regular season with a 21-0 record and won the Gateway East Conference title for the second straight year. With regional competition coming this weekend, the Steelers hope their success doesn't end with the final dual meet.

"We wanted to go out a winner," said John Morris, the Steelers' 185-pound wrestler. "I just hope we keep on going through the tournaments."

"We really wanted to win it for Coach (Walt) Whitaker and go two straight seasons undefeated. When we heard North was closing, we wanted to go out winners," Morris said.

Meanwhile, South coach Bill Schmitt calmly accepted the fact North was the best team in the area this season.

"There's not much you can say when you get stepped on like we did. They're the number one wrestling team in the area, and Walt has done a super job with them and stayed with them all the way," Schmitt said.

The match was every bit as lopsided as the score indicated. North picked up two pins, three superior decisions and two major decisions, while South only won two of the 12 matches.

"I can't say enough about how well our boys have done," Whitaker said. "That's what we've been doing all season."

The only major upset of the meet was when John Kramer, North's heavyweight, pinned Paul Hasty, South's 235-pounder, 23-51 prior to 3:15.

The first of North's superior decisions came when Greg Nemeth defeated Jon McGovern 13-1 at 112. Nemeth nearly pinned McGovern twice during the match.

At 138, North's Ken Patterson defeated Mike Fenoglio 17-1 with three near falls, three takedowns, two penalties and an escape.

North's Monte Kessler defeated Henry Brown 20-7 with a series of takedowns.

Rod Unger, 126, went 29-0 for the Steelers by defeating Joe Deshon 11-4. North's Bruce Widel, 28-4, defeated Mark Dowdy 11-2. Dowdy is 21-6-3 for the Warriors.

The most exciting match of the evening was at 185. Morris, 28-0-1 for the Steelers, defeated Dave Brown 13-10. Brown, coming back from an injury in January, gave Morris all he could handle as the two traded reversals.

The closest match was at 132 where North's Mark Whitaker defeated South's Darrin Hasty 5-4. Whitaker started strong, but Hasty took advantage on an escape, a penalty and a takedown to get back in the match.

In another exciting match, Brent McKinney of North defeated Tom Sparks 15-10.

"We're really happy about ending this war. A lot of the Steelers are seniors, and they wanted to win. When you lose your school, there's no better way to end the program than to have undefeated seasons," Whitaker said.

Jon Frangoulis, 28-2 for the Warriors, pinned South's only pin of the meet. Frangoulis, the Warriors' top wrestler, picked Bill Zimmer in 1:21.

"Frangoulis can be pretty doggone tough when he wants to be," Schmitt said. "He pinned a pretty good opponent."

South's other win came at 98. Jeff Cotter won a 10-1 major decision over North's Gary Mann. Cotter used a pair of near falls and takedowns to defeat Mann.

We did better in some matches than I thought we did, and we did worse in some matches than I thought we would," Schmitt said. "I thought we could have won three tonight, and we only won two of them."

North is the big favorite to win the Collinsville Regional meet this weekend, while South wrestles in the O'Fallon Regional. South should be in the thick of things at O'Fallon, which features a balanced selection of teams.

Warrior grapplers defeat Althoff, get 15th win

MICHAEL BARTLES
of the Press-Record

GRANITE CITY — Friday at Granite City South High School, coach "Red" Schmitt guided his grapplers to their 15th victory of the year in their last scheduled match of the season. South sent the visiting Belleville Althoff Crusaders home in defeat, 28-19.

The contest was a tight one and when the two big men took the mat in the heavyweight match, the Warriors held a slim 22-19 lead.

South got off to a rocky start in the 98-pound division as South's Jeff Cotter lost to Althoff's Joe Williams. Cotter fell behind early and in the second round was down 10-0 before being pinned by Williams with 1:43 remaining in the match.

At 105 pounds, South's Darrin Singleton came out quickly to score a takedown, but Althoff's Phillip Powe countered with a reversal and a two-point near fall enroute to a 6-2 decision.

Sean McGovern, South's 112-pounder, got the Warriors out of their slump and into the winning column with a 6-0 defeat keyed by a takedown and a two-point near fall late in the first period.

South 119-pounder, Tom Sparks, picked up four more team points with a 12-4

Granite South
Warriors

schooling of Althoff's Jim Edgar, nearly pinning the Belleville grappler twice.

At 126 pounds, Joe Deshon gave up 10 quick points to Althoff's Mike Neiner, dropping the match, 10-4.

In the matchup between South's Darrin Hasty and Althoff's Bill Neiner, neither wrestler seemed to want to be on top in the second period as each man gave up two reversals. Neiner outlasted Hasty, outpointing him for the victory, 11-4.

Mike Fenoglio, South's 138-pounder, got in serious trouble late in the first round and was nearly pinned by Althoff's Chris Zotta. Fenoglio dropped the match, 11-2.

As South went into the heavier weight classes, they began to show some strength and the Warriors refused to give Althoff another victory.

At 145, South's Henry Brown defeated Scott Santiago, 8-5, scoring three reversal

In the 155-pound battle, Tracy McElroy won a tight fight with Althoff's Scott Demick. At the end of two periods, the score was 6-0. In the down position in the third period, McElroy pulled a reversal in the first five seconds of the round, holding on to win, 2-0.

At 167, highly touted Jon Frangoulis didn't have to strut his stuff as he drew a forfeit. The forfeit tied the contest at 19.

Dave Brown, at 185, scored a 4-0 victory behind a takedown in the third period and a reversal in the third.

As the heavyweight match began, the Warriors were holding on to a slim lead, 22-19. If Paul Hitchcock were to lose the match, the Warriors could be at best hope for a tie.

Hitchcock was up to the challenge even though he gave up about 20 points to his opponent. In the first round, neither wrestler hit the mat until the last five seconds of the period when Hitchcock took Althoff's Randy Noud down, just outside the circle.

Hitchcock chose the up position for the second period and just 42 seconds into the round pinned Noud, giving South the 28-19 decision.

The Warriors are in action Friday at the regional qualifications at O'Fallon.

Trojans split pair of comebacks

By ALAN L. GERSTENECKER

of the Press-Record

MADISON — For the Madison Trojan basketball team, the weekend was one of comebacks. As a result of those comebacks, the Trojans were both the victims and the victors.

Friday night, the Trojans raced to a 29-10 first-quarter lead over East St. Louis-Senior, but waivered in the end as the Flyers avenged an earlier loss, winning 83-79.

Saturday night, the Trojans were the slow starters as visiting Hillsboro jumped to a 17-4 first-quarter lead. But, like Friday's game, a 13-point first-quarter lead was not enough as the Trojans came from behind to finally defeat the Hillsboro 54-44.

The weekend exchange in the win and loss columns adjusts the Trojan's record to 18-4 on the season.

Saturday's contest was equally important for both teams. Like Madison, the Hillsoppers were coming off a loss. The Toppers dropped a 50-47 contest to Mater Dei Friday night. Both teams were looking for a victory which would put them back on the winning track.

The Trojans, however, didn't start Saturday's game like a team that was looking for a win. In the beginning, they played miserably. Their shots were off, they were out of position and they managed more turnovers than a pastry shop chef.

It was apparent that the Trojans lost something more than the game Friday in East St. Louis. Madison coach Larry Graham concurred.

"Definitely. Without question I think last night's game had an effect on the way we played tonight," Graham said. "It was a letdown for the kids to go ahead by that much only to lose in the end," Graham said of Friday's contest.

It was that letdown, Graham said, that led to Madison's sporadic play Saturday.

"It (Madison's) slow start against Hillsboro may have been a number of things. But I think they were just trying too hard," he said. "I think perhaps they were trying to do too much too early."

Whatever the cause, Graham and

Madison
Trojans

assistant coach Dave Hodges found the remedy and restored the Trojans by the end of the first quarter.

A revitalized Madison team came back in the second stanza outscoring the Hillsoppers 26-8 to take a 30-25 halftime lead. That was a lead the Trojans never relinquished.

The recovered Trojans salvaged the game, but not their percentages. They shot a dismal 34 percent from the field while managing a 72 percent from the stripe.

Hillsboro suffered as well. The Toppers shot 38 percent from the field and 50 percent from the charity stripe.

Graham best assessed the game afterwards.

"It wasn't pretty, but we'll take it," he said.

One reason for the comeback was Trojan comeback was the improving play of 6-foot-5 senior forward Terry Hamilton.

Early in the season Hamilton's play was, at best, tentative. His shots were, more often than not, off their mark, and efforts at the free throw stripe seldom made a difference on the scoreboard.

But things are different now. Both Hamilton and his game have matured. Graham will be the first to attest to that.

Hamilton's a little more relaxed out there now, and it shows in his game," Graham said. "I found out he hasn't really played that much ball at Lincoln," Graham said. "He's come a long way in a little time."

"Hamilton and (Robert) Bishop, whom I think played his best game in some time, really came through for us tonight," Graham said.

In the third quarter, after the Trojans established the lead, the pace of the game slowed.

The Trojans rechanneled their efforts from offense to defense. In all, a total of 10 points were scored by both teams during the third stanza. Despite the slower paced game, the Trojans improved upon their lead, outscoring the Hillsoppers 7-3 to increase its lead to nine, 37-28.

The game's pace quickened in the final quarter as Hamilton hit back-to-back jumpers to move Madison ahead 41-28.

The Hillsoppers returned the favor, scoring on their next two possessions to narrow the point difference once again to nine.

Madison's 5-foot-8 senior point guard John Hughes broke for a layup with only 3:45 remaining to once increase the Trojan lead to 11 points.

The score fluctuated for the remainder of the game between nine, 11 and 12 points as each team swapped buckets. Careful not to draw any fouls, the Trojans played conservatively in the end, allowing the Hillsoppers to drive to the basket, which, in the end, cut the Trojan lead to 10, 54-44.

Madison's next two games are on the road. This Friday, Feb. 11, the Trojans take on Granite City South, while they travel to Teutopolis the following Friday, Feb. 18.

Madison's final home game is scheduled for the following night, Saturday, Feb. 19, against Lebanon.

GEC schools invited to Southwestern Conference

ALTON — Granite City School Board's decision last week to consolidate both of Granite City's high schools, without question, has had an effect on Granite City and neighboring communities with high school teams which compete in the Gateway East Conference.

But, there's a new twist.

The Press-Record has learned that while GEC athletic directors were meeting last Thursday, frantically trying to salvage the conference, letters from a Southwestern (Conference) were already in the mail trying to lure GEC members to that conference.

Robert Middleton, president of the Southwestern Conference, mailed written invitations last week to Edwardsville, Cahokia, Althoff as well as the newly forming Granite City High School, Alton, Belleville East, Belleville West, Collinsville, and East St. Louis-Senior are currently members of the Southwestern Conference.

Bryan Wilkinson, athletic director at Granite City North, whose school is consolidating, said the invitations were anticipated by GEC members.

"No, I don't see it as an attempt to undermine our intentions," Wilkinson said. "They're (the Southwestern Conference) in the same situation that we're in."

Both the GEC and the Southwestern Conference have five member schools, one less that recommended by the Illinois High School Association. Both conferences, however, were exempted of that requirement by the grandfather clause.

After the school board's decision last Tuesday to consolidate schools, members of the GEC met to discuss the fate of the conference.

During that meeting, it was the consensus of member schools of the Gateway East Conference to attempt to find an independent school to fill the vacancy left by the consolidation.

Gateway East Conference President Gilbert Walmesley has called a meeting for Tuesday, Feb. 8, at Granite City North to discuss the conference.

Pressing Venice runs away from Columbia

By ROGER KRAMER
of the Press-Record

VENICE — The full court press has been Venice's key to success this season, but the Red Devils sometimes need to be reminded on how to apply it.

Venice forgot how to apply it in the first half of Saturday's non-conference game with Columbia and led by only four points, but the Red Devils got a refresher course at halftime and ran the Eagles out of the gym. The Red Devils won 77-59.

"We couldn't run with them," lamented Columbia coach Jim Stuart. "If we would have stayed in our offensive game, we would have been all right."

Columbia managed to break through Venice's pressure in the first half to set up the offense. Stuart wanted to get the ball to his two big men, Shannon Sizemore and Mike Lambeck, and Columbia just that.

With 2:47 left in the second quarter, Columbia had a 28-24 lead, but Venice came back with eight unanswered points to finish the first half with a 32-28 lead.

"We hadn't scouted them, but I expected they would try to spread us out (Continued on Page 8)

Linhart excells, but Warriors still come up short

By MICHAEL BARTELS
of the Press-Record
GRANITE CITY — In what may have been the best game of his high school career, Pat Linhart, senior forward for the Granite City South Warriors, tossed in 31 points against the state-ranked Belleville East Lancers Saturday night. Despite Linhart's efforts, the Warriors dropped the decision to the Lancers of Belleville East, 75-59.

Linhart was awsome from the field, hitting 13 of 18 attempts for a sizzling 72 percent.

As the game started, Linhart's bombs were the only thing keeping South in the contest. The Belleville squad owned the middle on defense, sporting three men over 6-foot-5 inches tall.

Gary Leonard, who stands just over 6-foot-11 and is but 15 years old, was a dominant force in the middle and 6-foot-7-inch senior forward Steve Switzer was the offensive catalyst, chipping in 23 points for the evening.

In the first period, the lead see-sawed for the first few minutes, with the giant Leonard having trouble holding on to the ball, turning it over three times before taking a seat on the bench.

Linhart provided all of the offense in the first few minutes, hitting all seven of South's early points. At the quarter, South was trailing the Lancers, 17-11. Linhart had nine.

In the second period the big man came back into the game for East, remaining a stifling presence in the middle.

The East defense was intense as was the press implemented by South.

Midway through the second period, South began to get itself back into the contest. Linhart stayed hot and the big man was trying to front skywalker Brian Pihers. With the score 21-14, South threw an alley-oop across the court to John Linhart, cousin of Pat. Linhart hit the bucket and seconds later stole a pass on the press, driving in for the layup. East led by three, 21-18.

East began to build their lead with the inside-outside of Switzer scoring on short jumpers and Rob Goldschmidt and Scott Otness canning long sets.

At the half Linhart led all scorers with 16 and Switzer hit 12, Goldschmidt and Otness eight apiece.

In the second half, Leonard began to make his presence known again, going inside for four quick points.

The Warriors fought even with East until the 2:37 mark when Pat Linhart picked up his third personal foul. All six of South's players had three fouls or more except Jim Hillmer, who had two.

East began to pull away, extending their lead to 55-41 at the end of the third quarter.

The team of Linhart and Linhart continued to work for South though as John hit Pat four times for buckets, three of them typical back door plays.

In the fourth period, fouls began to catch up with South, as Barry Grote was the first to foul out with over six minutes left in the game.

With five-and-a-half minutes left, Pihers was injured and left the game for the locker room limping. A few minutes later he returned to the floor without the limp, but didn't see any more action.

At the five-minute mark, John Linhart fouled out and at 3:06 Paul Macios left the games on personals.

"Our kids hustled well," commented South coach Don Deterding. "They showed patience... they tried to get the ball to our bread and butter. Pat."

Deterding was proud of his players and felt they were a little overaggressive. "I was real proud of our kids," he said. "They stayed in there with them. We were a bit overaggressive, made some unnecessary fouls. The kids hustled well, they just outmanned us."

Switzer led East with 23 points and the 6-11 Leonard added 13. Otness, Goldschmidt and Cox all contributed 10. Linhart was the only warrior in double figures with his 31 points. Pihers and cousin John added six apiece.

North plays well, but Leonard lifts East to victory

By ROGER KRAMER
of the Press-Record
BELLEVILLE — Gary Leonard, Belleville East's 6-11 sophomore center, spoiled Granite City North's hopes of upsetting the highly regarded Lancers.

Leonard, who played in his first game since breaking his wrist Jan. 8 against Collinsville, literally took the game out of the Steelers' hands.

The brother of University of Illinois player Bryan Leonard only played 16 minutes, but his 16 points were the key to the Lancers' 73-58 win over North in a non-conference basketball game in Belleville.

"He's just too darn big for us to handle," North coach Bill Ohlendorf said. "We lost our only resemblance of size when Scott Cant fouled out of the game, and it's hard to stop him when your biggest guys are 6-11."

Nevertheless, Ohlendorf was extremely happy with how the Steelers performed. North, now 2-17 for the season, weren't supposed to be a match for the Lancers.

"We played right with them for 28 of the 32 minutes. As outmanned as we were, we played a super game. We looked as well as we have anytime this year," Ohlendorf said.

The Steelers moved all around the free throw line working for the good shot throughout the game. North was particularly effective in the first quarter and led 12-8 with 1:33 left in the period.

"They're the kind of team that could give us trouble because of their motion type offense," Lancer coach Don Otness said. "They cut and move across the lane, and we haven't seen much of that this year."

Otness, seeing North was a little more than he bargained for, put Leonard in the game with 1:33 left. Leonard responded with two baskets and blocked two shots, and the East led the game at 12-11 at the end of the quarter.

Leonard then came through in the second quarter with eight points in the first four minutes to put East ahead by five. By the end of the quarter, East was ahead 35-23.

"We only wanted Leonard to play three or four minutes per quarter. He played for only 16 minutes, but it seemed longer than that because he played the entire second quarter," Otness said. "We were spinning our wheels until he came in the game."

Life also became easier for the much taller Lancer when the 6-4 Cant fouled out with 3:49 left in the quarter. "I know that you should take someone out when he's in foul trouble, but Scott's got to learn how to play against big people with three or four fouls," Ohlendorf said.

Leonard took a breather in the third quarter and didn't play until the 2:19 mark. Meanwhile, the Steelers cut the lead to 10 thanks to a balanced scoring attack. The Steelers were still having success moving the ball around the lanes.

It wasn't until the fourth quarter when North was taken out of contention. Leonard had a pair of two-handed dunks with at 6:38 and 5:55. After that, East roared to a 73-52 lead.

"I'm sure Belleville East knows they had to play to beat us. We gave them much more of a game than anyone thought we would. We had an outstanding week of practice, and it showed," Ohlendorf said.

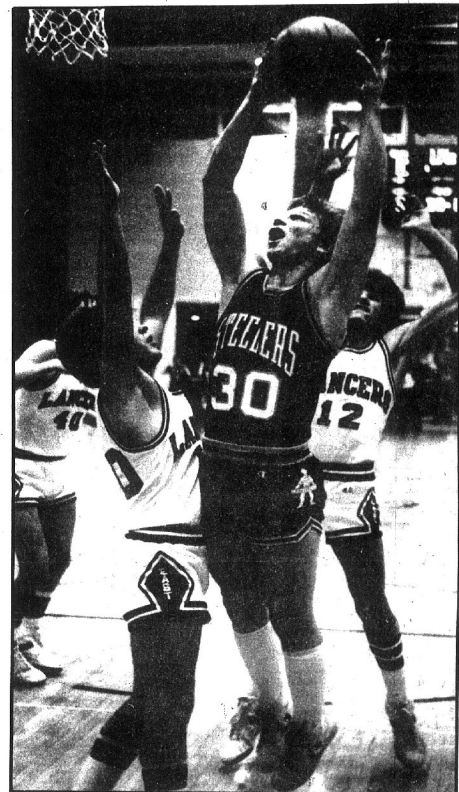

Leonard wasn't the only Lancer to do damage. Scott Otness led the Lancers with 21 points. Steve Switzer scored 17 points, and Jeff Bauer had 11 points.

Meanwhile, Daren DePew came back to the line-up and led North with 16 points. Steve Trittschuh added 12 points to North's cause.

North has two away East Conference games this weekend. The Steelers travel to Belleville Alhott Friday and play their final home game ever against Granite City South Saturday.

Venice Red Devils

and take the air out of the ball," Venice coach Ken Perkins said. "We came out leghairg. We thought, 'Oh, this is Columbia,' and we didn't play too hard."

The Venice team that came out of the locker room in the second half bore little resemblance to the team that played the first quarter.

When the Red Devils weren't stealing the ball, they were giving Columbia just one shot at the basket. On defense, the Devils blazed down the court. There was always at least one Red Devil near the ball.

In a matter of eight minutes, the game was a blowout. Venice outscored Columbia 24-10 in the third period. In a matter of 11 minutes, the Devils were ahead by 20.

Perkins cleared the bench to give his reserves some varsity playing time.

"After they got us in their running game, we couldn't keep up with them," Stuart said. "We're not that good of shooters to keep up with Venice."

Phillip White, a 5-9 junior, led the way for Venice with 30 points. Eddie Salmond scored 19 for the Red Devils, William Watts had 11 points, and Bobby Ervin and Darren Wise both had 10 points for Venice.

Salmond led Columbia with 14 points, and Lambeck and Bill Cox scored 11 points each for Columbia, 10-10 this season.

Youth basketball reinstituted in Madison, Venice

Urban League Director, Willie Walker, and YMCA Director, David L. Fenrite, sat down together over eight months ago, to begin planning a cooperative effort which would result in reinstituting program services to youth in Madison and Venice.

The whole idea is to provide their ego, and keep them off the streets, according to Walker. The result is YBA Youth Basketball Association. One hundred boys, ages 12-18, are enjoying the once-a-week practices and games, that will entertain them until the middle of March.

"The YBA program concept is a natural. Kids love to play basketball and while they're learning the fun of the game, we teach them values like respect for rules, teamwork, perseverance, obedience, and how to win and lose gracefully," Fenrite said.

School officials have enthusiastically supported the rebirth of YBA. Fenrite commented that both Superintendent of Schools, John L. Palchiff in Madison, and Robert Vickers in Venice, have gone out of their way to make facilities available and both have reflected an "anything I can do to help" attitude in providing a worthwhile character-building program like YBA.

The "rip-off," or season beginning, took place last week when the over-exuberant young round-bellies began practicing at Louis Baer School in Madison and Venice High.

Dedicated and skillful volunteers guide the youth and insure the "fun and fundamentals" concept of the program. Rick Everage is providing leadership for the Venice program. Volunteer coaches assisting Rick are Ken Wise, Tommy Johnson, Kevin Wigfall, Walter Bodie and Algee Crawford.

The Madison YBA coach volunteers include Wilson Wendell, Wayne McCaskill, Dudley Collins, Jerome Harper and Weidell McCaskill.

The Urban League has made it possible for the youth in Madison and Venice to join YBA this year, by providing $1,200, and through the cooperation of Willie Walker and Barbara Madison, several volunteer coaches were recruited.

ILLINOIS DOC accepting permits for coming turkey season

SPRINGFIELD — The Conservation Department's permit office will accept applications through Feb. 18 for permits to hunt wild turkey in Illinois, according to DOC Director David Kenney. A computerized drawing to allocate permits for the April 20 through May 1 hunting season will be conducted shortly after the permit application deadline. One new county, Pike, in west central Illinois, had been added to the hunting range for the 1983 season, bringing to 11 the number of counties open for wild turkey hunting.

Persons who obtain a 1983

turkey permit may use either a shotgun or bow-and-arrow to bag their gobbler. The bag limit for either shotgun or bow-and-arrow hunters is one male turkey or one bearded hen. A small percentage of turkey hens have beards and are considered legal game. Permit applications are available from any of the Conservation Department's Regional Offices, the DOC Chicago office, or the Department's Turkey Permit Office in Springfield, phone (217) 782-7305. Completed applications should be returned along with a $15 check or money order to the Department of Conservation, Turkey Permit Office, Lincoln Tower Plaza, 526 S. Second St., Springfield. Applications must be received or postmarked by the Feb. 18 application deadline.

A total of 2,450 permits are available.

Seebold to attend All Sports Show

ST. LOUIS — 1982 World Champion Bill Seebold, winningest driver in the history of powerboat racing and senior member of the internationally renowned Bud Light racing team, will be among the top celebrities at this year's all sports show, set for Feb. 8-13 at the Cervantes Convention Center downtown.

Seebold captured the 1982 Formula 1 world title, but finished second to his son Mike in the 1982 National Powerboat Association (NPA) points competition. Seebold's Bud Light 190, the same boat he used to capture the checkered flag at five races last year, will be on display throughout the six-day sports show.

Both members of the Bud Light racing team compete in 17 foot 8-inch Tunnel-Hull boats powered by Mercury two-liter fuel-injected engines. These personally designed and built "Mod 120s" as they are called can reach speeds of up to 135 miles per hour.

Seebold is formerly of Granite City.

State probing energy conservation programs

The Governor's Office of Consumer Services (GOCS) asked Thursday to participate in an Illinois Commerce Commission (ICC) probe of energy conservation programs run by the 10 major gas and electric utility companies in Illinois, including Illinois Power Co.

The ICC investigation, said GOCS Director Alvin K. Grandys, seeks to look into a wide range of technically and economically feasible energy conservation programs.

"The GOCS fully endorses the commission's efforts to analyze and implement a wide range of conservation practices," Grandys said. "In light of evidence the GOCS has filed before the ICC on the cost effectiveness of energy conservation programs in use since 1978, the commission's order offers consumers their first real hope for relief from the cycle of ever-rising utility rates," he said.

The ICC investigation, formally called the Propriety and Appropriateness of the Development and Implementation of Energy Conservation Programs, requires each utility to submit within 90 days conservation proposals which it believes serves ratepayers' interests.

HIGH MATH HONOR TO BAC STUDENTS
Belleville Area College ranked second in the nation in the first round of tests given by the American Mathematical Association of Two-Year Colleges.

Three tests are given every year locally and compared on a national level. Last year, BAC's team placed first in the nation for the total of the three tests.

In addition to BAC's team score, two BAC students, who are dually enrolled at the college and in high school placed individually.

Ted Meyer, a student at BAC and at Belleville Township High School West, placed second. Phong Nguyen, a student at BAC and at Belleville Township High School East, placed eighth.

Other members of the BAC team were Tim Roylance, dually enrolled at BAC and Belleville East; Laren Love, dually enrolled at BAC and Belleville West; and Joel Reynolds of Belleville.

Start losing weight today
Begin losing weight immediately with maximum-strength Super Dieting reducing tablets and Diet Plan. It takes over where your will power leaves off. A government appointed panel of medical and scientific experts has reviewed the clinical tests of the maximum-strength ingredient in Super Dieting and has termed it "safe and effective" for appetite control and weight loss. Try Super Dieting today.

To lose weight blast and puffiness, try Dieting. Dieting is the relief you want during the pre-menstrual cycle. It is a natural "water pill," and it is sold with a money-back guarantee. Read and follow all cautions on packaging carefully.

Walgreen's

Grandys said. "Since utility companies in general may be reluctant to propose a wide range of cost-effective conservation plans, an independent and objective analysis of their proposals is crucial to the ICC's deliberations," he said.

Grandys said Thursday's request by the GOCS to take part in the investigation would give it equal legal standing during the ICC probe, enabling it to cross-examine witnesses during hearings on utility programs and present evidence during the investigation.

Fun Fitness to aid youngsters, working moms

The Tri-City Area YMCA, 2001 Edison Ave., is offering a Fun-N-Fitness program at half price to school children, but with working mothers in mind.

SEMC IV THERAPY GIVES TO AMY HARDIN
The IV Therapy Department at St. Elizabeth Medical Center conducted a bake sale Feb. 1, with proceeds going to the Amy Lynn Hardin Liver Transplant Fund.

The sale, organized and run by Lori Urioste, LPN and Phyllis Meinz, LPN, raised $361 to help 7-month-old Amy, who lives in Cahokia. The sale was at Semco's Cafeteria at SEMC during the noon hour.

The program is designed as an after school activity for any child age 5 through 11.

According to a YMCA spokesman, fun supervised activities are held every day school is in session. Transportation is furnished by the YMCA to pick up children from school only. From 3:30 to 4:45 p.m. healthful games are conducted. From 4:45 to 5:30 p.m. there is recreational swimming, and from 5:30 to 6:00 p.m. youngsters participate in group activities.

Parents are expected to pick up their children by 6 p.m.

Cost is $2 per day for YMCA members and $3 per day for others. Those who do not require transportation from school pay one dollar less per day.

Participants must sign up at least two days per week and are requested to register at least two days before coming to the activities.

Although the program is designed to give a helping hand to working mothers, mothers not employed outside the home also are invited to enroll their children.

Those interested in more information may call the YMCA at 876-7200.

GOP Women plan membership drive

February, March and April have been designated for a membership drive campaign of the Granite City Republican Women's Club, it was announced by program and membership committee chairmen, Mrs. Vernice Walter and Verna Michel, at the monthly meeting of the organization, last week.

Members met at Bill Burn's Cafeteria with President Janet Wilson presiding. The announced awards in the membership campaign will be awarded at the May 3 meeting which also will be the mother-daughter dinner. Those who wish to attend the dinner may bring a mother, daughter or adoptive to attend, and a special award featuring a three generation family will be presented, the president noted.

Other announcements were from Mrs. Faith Holsinger who announced, on behalf of her husband, District Chairman Kent Holsinger, the Madison County Lincoln's Day dinner will be on March 4. Tickets may be purchased from precinct committee members or Mrs. Wilson, she added.

Vice-President Mrs. Walter reported on progress of the club's Lincoln's Day luncheon set for Saturday, Feb. 12, at 11:30 a.m. at Burn's Cafeteria. Reservations may be made by calling 876-5748, she added. Mrs. Walter reviewed the 1983 club calendar and presented the program on "News, Views and Issues." Several of the members shared news of special interest, one being the church affiliations of the new Congress. Opinions included results of Senator Charles Percy's last survey. The group concluded that there are many issues on the local, state and national level which the members feel they need more information to become aware of all aspects in the current government decisions.

Elna Hoover, who serves as regional co-ordinator for AARP Tax-Aide program, shared several points on filing income tax returns. Mrs. Wilson introduced guests, Edmund Firner, Elmo Grunfelder and Miss Marcie Holsinger. Emma Schoen was appointed chairman of the Senior Americans committee and Janette Krause will serve as Community Service chairman. The club purchased books during the year to add to the Mayme Eisenhower book shelf at the Granite City Public Library which included ed, The Reagan Wit, Bill Adler, Media Power and Politics, David Paletz, The American Renaissance and Jack Kemp. Carol Downing, who has served as chairman of the project, will continue in that capacity, it was announced. Attendance prizes for the night went to Lilli Ann Firner, Ruth Lucas and Marcie Holsinger.

Madison Club changes by-laws

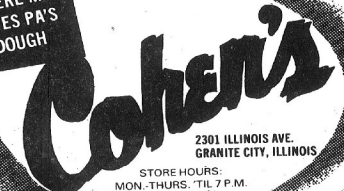

A change in the by-laws of the Madison City Democrat Club was approved by the members at a monthly meeting held at the Madison Recreation Center, last week. President Zella Niehaus presided and led the group in repeating the pledge of allegiance and prayer. Various end of the year reports were given and a discussion was held on a club night out. Angela Vavra was appointed to serve as chairman of the event. Letters of application for membership were submitted during the session. Those named as the February hostesses included Dolie Smith, Laura Peach and Mary Moore. A dessert course was served to 32 members during the social hour.

Exec. Vice-President

Q. In the past, you've given some sound advice on family budgeting, but here is one individual you've missed: The person whose income is based on commissions and is, therefore, variable. Since I just began such a job for the first time, I wonder if you could offer any tips?

A. We apologize for the oversight. We are aware that many Americans do work on commission basis. If you're just starting out, the most important thing is to keep spending to a minimum for a while, until you see how your income will generally work out. To build up a margin of safety, so to speak, for times when your commission checks may dwindle, try to set aside some money from each check. And, another key is record keeping. Get in the habit of maintaining strict, accurate records for at least a year (depending on your business, six months may be long enough). Utilizing those records, you should be able to construct a workable budget which should continue to include regular savings — an extremely important asset for anyone working on average monthly earnings.

GC Unit studies Indian cookery

The Granite City Unit, Madison County Homemakers Extension Association, met last week for a lesson on Indian cookery at the Nameoki Presbyterian Church.

The presentation was by Helen Harshany, Ann Pare and Ann Palsgrove, who prepared a menu of Indian style foods which included, Keema with peas, chicken curry, Indian fried rice, savory pastries, and potatoes in fragrant gravy.

There were 22 members in attendance with two guests, Wendy Weston and Jackie Hackethal. Four new members introduced were, Vera Lynn, Stephanie Mikovich, Fay Angelloff and Betty Weston.

A Valentine motif was used in the table decorations created by hostesses, Leona Delaloye, Freddie McRoy, and Marcie Johnson. They used a velvet heart edged in lace with red velvet roses and violets on either side, as the centerpiece. A tray of candied strawberries and cake was served as dessert.

The luncheon prayer was given in unison and Elizabeth Schmidt opened the business segment with the pledge to the flag. Reports were submitted by the secretary and treasurer.

Members were reminded of a re-upholstering furniture workshop in Edwardsville, set for April 5, 12 and 19 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Cost of the event will be $5, it was noted.

The Illinois Homemakers Extension Federation annual convention will be held March 29, 30 and 31 at the University of Illinois at a cost of $70.25. Reservations must be made no later than Feb. 28, the chairman announced.

Marcie Johnson requested members provide crafts for a display in Urbana.

Madison teachers to study vocational ed.

To help today's children develop skills for tomorrow's jobs, the Vocational Education department of Madison Senior High School will be studying competency-based individualized vocational education (CIVIE) at a workshop on Friday.

Dr. Urban Oen, project director of the DuPage Area Vocational Education Authority (DAVEA) Center in Addison, Ill., will be the presenter. This DAVEA Center serves as an Illinois demonstration center for all faculty members of the business, industrial arts and home economics departments will meet with Dr. Oen.

Faculty members participating are: Lee Ashby, Vocational Director; J. Alan Gardner, Beverly Imming, and Raelynn Parks, business department; Lois Robinson, home economics department; and Thes Franks, Charles Lawson, and Donald Smith, industrial arts department. The vocational education faculty is desirous of enlarging their ways to help students to master skills to succeed on the job performance, a spokesman said.

Competency-based education is a systematic approach aimed at further improving the teaching-learning process. A competency is defined as a knowledge, skill, or attitude which the student will demonstrate at a predetermined level. The basic intent of competency-based education is to study the achieving required competencies needed for successful on-the-job performance.

Teachers are able to spend more time interacting with students on a one-to-one basis, motivating, and helping those students who really need this help. As a facilitator of the learning process, teachers can be more objective enabling them to diagnose and solve learning problems.

Competency-based education emphasizes performance and skill development with a "real world" orientation, it was explained.

Illinois veterans to receive dividends

More than $33 million will be paid to 189,038 Illinois veterans during 1983 as a result of dividends declared by the Veterans Administration on insurance policies.

Grady Horton, director of the VA regional office in Chicago, said these veterans have kept their GI insurance in force since their discharge from the service.

The record high dividend was made possible because of lower than expected death rates among policyholders.

No application for the annual dividend is needed, Horton said. Each policyholder will receive the dividend in the month of the anniversary of the individual policy.

In Illinois 2,577 World War I veterans will receive more than $735,000 in dividends. 149,955 World War II veterans will receive $29,537,000; 31,228 Korean veterans will receive $2,444,000; and 5,100 veterans holding Veterans Reopened Insurance policies will receive $334,000.

Dividends differ under each program depending on the amount of insurance, age, plan selected and length of time the policy has been in force.

Decision called teacher victory

Attorneys for the Illinois Federation of Teachers predict that the decision and award handed down last week in the Peoria School District 150 will have a major impact on teachers and school boards through the state.

Terry Knapp, a 15-year teacher in the Peoria schools, was awarded $54,333 in damages by a U.S. District Court jury.

The previous day, Judge Michael Mihm rendered a directed verdict finding the Peoria district violated Knapp's First Amendment rights of free speech.

Mihm said the school district's policy regulating teachers' contracts with board members is "fatally defective and contacts with members are 'protected speech' under the First Amendment."

Knapp's problems began more than two years ago when he attempted to discuss school matters with school board members at their request, the IFT says. This prompted the administration to relieve Knapp of his coaching position, transfer him to a different school, and file poor evaluations after years of excellent ratings, it was contended.

"I feel elated and fully vindicated but I'm really glad Peoria has been a difficult time for me and my family," Knapp said. "I could not have been successful in this legal action without the full support of the IFT, the American Federation of Teachers and the Peoria Federation of Teachers."

BURGLARY, ROBBERY REPORTED BY MAN
David Hutchings, 1425 Third Street, Madison, reported a burglary and a robbery at his residence to police, both of which occurred last week.

In one incident, Hutchings reported the local was broken off the front door and a color TV valued at $430 taken.

In another incident, Hutchings told police that he met two men who offered to introduce him to a woman friend of his. Hutchings said that one of the men and the woman then tried to throw a blanket on him, took his pants off, and stole $185 from his pocket. Hutchings alleged they tried to tie him up, but failed.

A jewelry box containing cufflinks and assorted jewelry also was taken. Hutchings said one of the men threatened to kill him, then left with the woman and child. The other man placed the jewelry box on the ground and told Hutchings he was sorry and would get the items back for him, but Hutchings said the man did not return.

Successful linkage program funded here for third year

By VALERIE EYENDEY
of the Press-Record

The highly-successful "Linkages" program, administered through Coordinated Youth Services, has been funded for the third consecutive year and will serve eligible youth under the JTPA (Job Training Partnership Act) formerly CETA, in the Granite City, Madison and Venice school districts and those enrolled at the CYS Alternative School and Venice-Lincoln Technical Center.

The Venice-Lincoln vocational-educational center, which serves a wider area than the Quad-Cities, joins the program this year as a new component.

The local "Linkage" program has received a go-ahead signal for another year of operation, it was announced this week, despite gloomy expectations to the contrary when no funds appeared forthcoming last year, due to severe cuts in federal and state programs.

A grant of $40,000 in federal funds, administered through the Illinois State Board of Education, will finance the education-employment expansion program for the next eight months, according to C.A. "Bud" McMillan Jr., CYS executive director.

Shirley Blasingame again will direct the program, geared to high school age youth and young adults, which involves area business firms, labor organizations and school administrators, who cooperate in creating the basic foundation of the concept of the "Linkages Education-Employment Exploration Program," or LEEP.

Only a few such grants are being awarded this year, with the Granite City-based project receiving the first to be announced.

A total of 42 "Linkages" grants were awarded in 1982 throughout the United States, but perhaps 10 will be funded in 1983, it was learned.

Forty young people, including 18 handicapped youths from EMH classes in the Quad-City area, will be involved in the 1983 program, which affords an opportunity to receive high school credits toward their high school diplomas or General Educational Development (GED) certificate.

In 1980, when the first Linkages program was initiated, Madison County was one of 10 sites throughout the state to be selected to conduct the special program in developing linkage models. Coordinated Youth Services was named as the implementing agency.

The Educational Service Region, which includes Madison County Office of Manpower Development were co-sponsors, with assistance provided by the Southwestern Illinois Metropolitan and Regional Planning Commission (SIMAPC) and Consortium of Vocational Educators and Employers (COVEE).

The concept was designed to test the feasibility of developing positive attitudes toward work and education involving participants who previously had not been able to adjust to a typical educational setting.

The pilot program here has been an unqualified success and received national recognition in each of its initial two years, Mrs. Blasingame said. Harkmark recognition came last fall when a description of the project was selected to be entered Project Data Bank in the Library of Congress by President Reagan's Task Force on Private Sector Initiatives, to serve as a model of how public and private sector partnerships can be established.

Senator Alan J. Dixon of Illinois also cited the local program when he made the following remarks for publication in the Congressional Record on Aug. 16, 1982:

"Mr. President, today I would like to take note of an exceptional project in my home state of Illinois. Known as the 'Linkages Education-Employment Exploration Program' or LEEP, it is designed to promote educational and training services for young people in Madison County, Ill."

"The program establishes goals for its participants that include educational improvement and familiarization with the employment sector on a personal basis. It is conducted with the cooperation of business, industry, organized labor, government and currently includes 80 employers."

"Mr. President, apparently this approach has much to recommend it. It has achieved mean gains of 14 years in reading, 12 years in mathematics and an attendance rate of 94 percent. One third of the participants elected to return to school on either a part-time or full-time basis while the program continued, and the other two thirds were hired on either a part-time or full-time basis after their training period."

"The project has been funded 100 percent by the Federal Government as one of 10 nationwide Vocational Education-CETA Linkage pilot projects to determine the most effective method of educating and training our disadvantaged youth."

"Locally administered, it has won national recognition in its first year and, now in its second, is being expanded as employers prove to be competent and effective instructors."

"I believe special recognition is due the project director, Shirley Blasingame, and staff of the Illinois State Board of Education, Department of Adult, Vocational and Technical Education, who have been cited as largely responsible for the program's success. Their time and dedication have surely brightened the future of many young people, as well as the local community."

"Mr. President, I am proud that my state can boast of such innovative projects and enterprising individuals and hope that this program serves as an example to all of us as we seek to formulate policies addressing this nation's educational and occupational problems."

Mrs. Blasingame said the overall goal of the program is to promote linkages and form partnerships among education, training and employment systems for the ultimate benefit of area youth, young adults and the economic health of the community.

The third-year model is an expansion and dissemination of year one and two LEEP projects, and involves alternative training for CETA-JTPA eligible youth, she explained.

Groups of five CETA-JTPA participants and one instructor will provide the basis for the intense 180-hour skills development program. Through the cooperation of the employment sector, local business people will serve as instructors to the students at their respective business sites. There is no remuneration for the students, Mrs. Blasingame said.

The student participants enrolled in a Career Awareness class will be involved also in work observation and work experiences for two hours a day in six-week cycles for one semester. Various on-campus training sites will be utilized for these instructional purposes, she noted.

This year, Mrs. Blasingame pointed out, the Venice-Lincoln Technical Center will have a group of five CETA-JTPA eligible students taking part in a roving classroom situation, using private sector business sites as their physical base.

Most of those involved in Linkages view the world of employment with little enthusiasm for a variety of reasons, the director said.

Some have had little success in a regular school program and need help in changing their attitude and becoming familiar with the jobs available. Others are unsure and frightened.

Job development at an early stage and learning what industry and business have to offer are among the program benefits, according to area AFL-CIO leaders who are involved in Linkages.

Discovering their job interest, preparing for job interviews and learning how they can enter apprenticeship programs, if interested, also are benefits made available to the students.

Linkages has the support and assistance of an Advisory Council, consisting of representatives from high schools, vocational programs, adult education centers, CETA-JTPA programs, area employers, labor organizations and community interest groups.

The council serves as the focal point for information sharing, problem exploration and mutual problem-solving. In this year's Linkages program, a recording-breaking total of 102 area businesses is taking part. They included a newspaper, banks, restaurants, utility companies, industries, law offices, large and small stores and governmental bodies.

Among the participants are: The Granite City Press-Record, Granite City Steel, AAA Maintenance, Adams, Ltd., Amoco Plumbing, Bob's Shell, Archer Daniels Midland Co., Alexander's Restaurant, American Heritage Bank, Cahokia Historical Site, Charlie's

SEMC & DePaul Hospital open St. Louis facility

The Sisters of Divine Providence, owner of St. Elizabeth Medical Center and Providence Management and Marketing Services in Granite City, has formed an affiliation with the Daughters of Charity, owners of DePaul Health Center in Bridgeton, Mo., and that together they have opened a new occupational health facility, West County Industrial Medicine.

According to Sister Mary Thomas, SEMC president, this affiliation is unique in the St. Louis area. "This is the first time that area Catholic hospitals have combined their efforts to promote cost-effective health care services for business and industry," she says.

The West County Industrial Medicine facility, located at 1311 Lindbergh Plaza Center in St. Louis, is patterned after SEMC's Industrial Medicine program, which has been in operation in Granite City for the past two years. "We feel that by combining our program with DePaul's near-by hospital facilities, we can offer excellent services to West County business and industry," Sister Thomas said.

Employees can contract with Industrial Medicine for a full range of health care services for their employees. These services include: pre-employment physicals, annual testing to monitor employee health and evaluation for both Workmen's Compensation and insurance disability. A physician is on duty during office hours from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, to perform physical examinations and treat minor work-related injuries.

Occupational health nurses staff the facility and provide health education for employees. Included in health education is instruction in cardio-pulmonary resuscitation and proper use of safety equipment.

Industrial Medicine personnel conduct on-site plant surveys in order to have a specific understanding of the health care needs of each group of employees. In the facility, they conduct screenings for high-risk results, to help reduce risk, promote better health and reduce absenteeism from work.

According to Steve Hunter, SEMC's assistant vice president in charge of marketing and planning, one of the most attractive features of the Industrial Medicine program is that it is cost-effective. "This program makes it possible for employers to provide their employees with health care services at much less cost than if they hire their own full-time staff," Hunter says.

Also, treatment of work-related injuries is less expensive than having the same service performed at a hospital emergency room. These health care services are less time consuming as well, Hunter explains that the program is designed to give prompt, "no waiting" service. Staffing patterns are arranged to accommodate emergencies and unscheduled visits. "Because patients do not have to spend a lot of time in emergency rooms and doctors' office waiting rooms, the time that workers spend away from their jobs for examinations or screenings is significantly reduced," he says.

If an employee is injured on the job after Industrial Medicine office hours or in need of hospital in-patient services, the employee will be treated at DePaul. Because of the availability of hospital services around the clock, Industrial Medicine patients have access to medical care whenever they need it, not just during business hours.

The West County Industrial Medicine program began accepting patients Jan. 26.

NATIONS OF EARTH ARE PREPARING FOR CHRIST'S SECOND COMING!

The Number One industry in all of the world is preparing for war. Whether you are familiar with it or not, preparing for the face of the earth, generally speaking, has as its prerequisite its national defense. It's rather interesting, but recently the Senate Appropriations Committee recommended that Congress appropriate $201 billion just for defense spending.

At the same time, the deficit in the United States has reached the $100 billion level for the first time in a single year. In other words, the nation is spending more in its military than in its education. The entire world system is geared for war, and practically all of our manufacturing of any magnitude whatsoever is involved in war and war preparation at some one level or other. That's why the Book of Revelation talks about:

Scripture: "And I saw the beast (Antichrist), and the kings of the earth, and their armies, GATHERED TOGETHER TO MAKE WAR against Him (Jesus Christ) that sat on the horse, and against His army." Rev. 19:13. (Please read the entire section relative to the Second Coming which is Rev. 19:11-21.)

This section of Scripture solemnly explains the great race for arms and military budgets throughout the civilized world. It's all being done under the pretense of defense, but yet at the same time Satan who is the prince of this world system, is masterminding all of this arms spending, getting the nations of the earth ready to advance toward Jerusalem, and to oppose Jesus Christ at His Second Advent. Please read carefully the 10th chapter of the Book of Revelation verses 12, 14 and 15, and you will see that the recruiting effort that's going to be made on an international scale in the 70th Week of Daniel immediately prior to the war of Armageddon.

Whether we want to accept facts or not, the nations of this earth are preparing for Christ's Second Coming! It's true, the leaders of international governments do not even acknowledge Christ, some of them do not even acknowledge God, but yet God's directive will is going to come to pass exactly as it's recorded in the pages of Holy Writ. We are living in the last days, and the coming of Jesus Christ to take His Church to the judgment is just around the corner. In the meantime, let us enter into the Marriage Supper of the Lamb during the last half of the 70th Week of Daniel, and then return in great and glorious power with the Rider of the white horse of Revelation chapter 19, to take over the control of world government from the hands of the Gentiles, and bring in an age of peace never before witnessed upon the planet earth described by the pen of Isaiah 700 years before the First Advent of the Baby in Bethlehem's manger.

Scripture: "And He (Jesus Christ) shall judge among the nations, and shall rebuke many people; and they shall beat their swords into plowshares, and their spears into pruning hooks: nations shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more." Isa. 2:4.

This is a picture of universal peace, a contrast of universal war as set forth in the Book of Joel chapter 3 verses 9-15, which will be fulfilled at the battle of Armageddon as recorded in the Book of Zechariah chapter 14, Revelation chapter 16, and Revelation chapter 19.

So, Believers look Up for Redemption draws nigh.

State sees new $255 million shortfall

State Budget Director Robert Mandeville thinks state revenues in the general funds for fiscal year 1983 (July 1982 to June 1983) will be $8.312 billion — $223 million lower than previous estimates.

"This downward revision is required because continued economic weaknesses in the national and state economies are expected to cause poor revenue performance throughout the year," Mandeville said.

He said revenues of $8.312 billion mean that additional corrective actions are required to bring state spending into line with revenues. These will be described in the governor's State of the State message tomorrow.

With seven months of the state's fiscal year complete, tax receipts from state sources are up only $17 million — less than 1/2 of 1 percent — over the previous year.

Income taxes and sales taxes is down from last year by $21 million or 1.4 percent while the sales tax has increased $33 million or 2.4 percent.

The lower revenue estimate also reflects a year-long slide in the economic outlook as forecast by Data Resources.

The January 1983 economic outlook of each economic forecasting service was revised downward for the fifth straight month.

Both forecasting services have had to sharply revise their estimates of national trends as the predicted recovery in the nation's economy failed to develop, Mandeville noted.

"Improvement in the nation's economy" also has served to reduce revenue yields to the state.

State revenue growth follows the inflation rate and the large drop in inflation from double-digit levels of the last several years (just 3.9 percent from the fourth quarter of 1981 to the fourth quarter of 1982) has restricted state revenue increases, he added.

The current revenue shortfall was anticipated nearly two months ago, on Dec. 7, when Mandeville "cautioned" that further declines in the economic outlook are possible, indicating that the revenue slides experienced so far this year may not yet have run their course."

The Bureau of the Budget general fund revenue estimates for fiscal 1983 are in millions of dollars:

Individual income tax, $2,397.

Corporate income tax, $430.

Sales tax, $2,351.

Public utility taxation, $850.

Cigarette tax, $170.

Liquor taxes, $76.

Inheritance tax proceeds, $156.

Insurance taxation, $100.

Corporate franchise revenue, $44.

Interest income, $97.

Other sources, $108.

Total state sources, $6,558.

Federal aid, $1,393.

Transfers-in, $361.

Grand total of general revenue, $8,312,000,000.

Seminars on use of personal computers

Seminars on how to get the most out of a personal computer will be offered in St. Louis by the Center for Management Studies at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville this week and in March.

Scheduled Feb. 9 to 11 and again March 2 to 4 at the Henry VIII Inn and Lodge, 4690 North Lindbergh Blvd., St. Louis, the seminars will meet from 9 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. each day.

The seminars are designed for managers and professionals in all industries, including sales, marketing, finance, manufacturing, production personnel, training, education, owners of business and anyone who has dabbled with a personal computer and now wants additional knowledge about the computer field.

Coursework will include an introduction to computer programming, writing a basic program, data files management, software and other personal computer applications.

Instructor for both seminars will be Harvey M. Weiss, president of Weiss and Associates, an internationally-known computer sciences educator.

Weiss was formerly with Honeywell Information Systems, Touche, Ross and Company, RCA-EDP, and the Service Bureau Corporation. His works have been widely published in computer journals, and he has served on the faculties of several universities.

"Some people think that within five years most professional, managerial and technical workers will own a personal computer," according to Weiss. "The power of a personal computer will allow users to achieve a depth of analysis formerly beyond their reach."

To learn more about the seminars, interested persons may contact James F. Miller Jr., director of the SIUE Center for Management Studies, at 1-902-2669.

TWO COMMODITY SEMINARS PLANNED

"Bargaining More Than Marketing" is the theme of two commodity seminars being held by the State Board of Illinois National Farmers. The meetings will be held Wednesday at the REA Building in Greenville, Ill., and Thursday at the Holiday Inn in Princeton, Ill. The meetings will start at 1 p.m.

Kenny Strenlau, Mendota, state president of NFO, said that the seminars are being promoted by the state board members to help everyone become aware of the benefits of NFO programs.

Ed Graf, assistant to the national NFO president, will be chairing the seminars. Neil Andrews, grain bargainer, will discuss blocking grain for future sales; Steve Demaray will explain the Cull Cow Program that has been started in the area and also Pat Cattle bargaining. Larry Sills will discuss Hog Block Contracts and Ted Strait, Dairy Bargaining. A question-and-answer period will follow the presentation.

The meetings are open to all who are interested in agriculture — farmers, landowners, agri-business, bankers and others.

Further indications of the shutdown's impact on the trucking industry were confirmed by Connie Randolph, terminal manager and dispatcher for Aetna, 1556 State St., who said, "None of my truckers are coming into town."

For both B & V Transport and Aetna, the chief commodity they haul from the area is steel.

The local Aetna terminal for the Ohio-based company normally handles about 30 shipments a week, but last week, no trucks were available to move any freight orders.

"They (drivers) are afraid," she explained. "They figure they may get shot. They say it's not worth the risk."

But she, like others surveyed, was unaware of any threats aimed at truckers in this area. Williams said, "I'm going to support his one every way I can, except violently," Wells said.

Batson was charged with failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident, not having a valid driver's license and failing to give information about an accident.

ICC rulings designed to ease gas, phone payments

New rulings by the Illinois Commerce Commission — possibly prompted by a grassroots effort to change the makeup of the commission — are clearly designed to aid the consumer at the expense of utilities and energy suppliers.

In one ruling, the ICC has asked three Central Illinois utility companies, including Illinois Power Co., to seek prices on cheaper natural gas for their customers, rather than planning on buying more expensive Algerian gas from Panhandle Eastern Pipeline Co.

The other ruling, the ICC approved new rules aimed at assisting customers who are having difficulty paying telephone bills.

The ICC also announced that it is working with the Illinois attorney general's office in studying antitrust allegations against Panhandle Eastern, which is threatening to charge higher prices to utilities than the market would dictate.

Central Illinois Light Co. (CILCO) filed a complaint with the ICC last year charging that Panhandle is forcing utilities to live up to a contract to buy more expensive Algerian gas when cheaper domestic gas is plentiful. The action could cost Central Illinois consumers $45 million a year.

The ICC game Illinois Power, CILCO and Central Illinois Public Service Co. 30 days to report on prices at which they could obtain less expensive domestic natural gas for their customers.

In its ruling against the state's telephone companies, the ICC ordered that May 1, telephone companies must offer residential customers a chance to pay past-due bills over a four-month period on an installment plan.

Service to a home cannot be cut off for 30 days if a doctor declares that disconnection of the telephone will create a medical hazard.

Interest rates on customer deposits will be based on a formula more closely reflecting prevailing interest rates.

Residential customers who have had telephone service for more than a year cannot be required to pay a deposit, unless their phones have been disconnected for failure to pay bills. Deposits will be limited to an amount equal to two months average service to that customer, the ICC ruled.

Also effective May 1 will be rulings that residential customers cannot be denied service because of the payment history of a previous customer at that address, and business telephones will be allowed 21 days, rather than 14, to pay their monthly bills, without penalty.

Receives renovation grant

A $126,499 grant for 1983 to include renovation of Logan School here and the Dunbar Johnson Center in Madison for the Headstart program has been approved by the Madison County Economic Opportunity Commission.

Executive Director Ruben Williams at its board meeting Thursday.

The board also elected Gene McGovern, a Granite City resident and member of the Carpenters' District Council of the Madison County area, to fill a vacant board seat.

In other action, the board learned that Illinois Department of Public Aid (IDPA) has established a statewide criteria of need for distribution of surplus commodities.

New income guidelines have been adopted and are based on family size, using the following maximum income: a family of one, $683 per month or $8,196 annually; family of two, $907 per month or $10,885 annually; family of three, $1,132 per month or $13,584 annually; family of four, $1,356 per month or $16,272 annually; family of five, $1,581 per month or $18,970 annually; family of six, $1,806 per month or $21,665 annually.

For additional family members, $235 or $2,825 annually can be added.

The guidelines also say the distribution of surplus commodities cannot be limited to particular groups and must be made on a first-come, first-served basis.

The EOC had requested that guidelines be set by the Illinois Department of Public Aid, but the new standards were not received before January's distribution of cheese.

TRUCK TRAILER GONE

A 42-foot flatbed trailer loaded at $9,000 was stolen from a parking lot in the 1500 block of State Street, authorities were told Thursday. Its owner is the Monken Co. of Joplin, Mo.

Strike slows truck

and by truck drivers, watched business decrease about 35 percent.

James Wells, an Madison independent truck owner who drives for and leases his truck to the Yellow Freight System, said he had not been on the road all week. "I can stay out forever. In fact, that's what I might do," he said bitterly, when contemplating the anticipated rise in taxes for truckers.

As a member of the Teamsters' union, he was not observing the shutdown officially, but he supports the strike. He also was keeping his truck parked to steer clear of any violence.

Further indications of the shutdown's impact on the trucking industry were confirmed by Connie Randolph, terminal manager and dispatcher for Aetna, 1556 State St., who said, "None of my truckers are coming into town."

For both B & V Transport and Aetna, the chief commodity they haul from the area is steel.

The local Aetna terminal for the Ohio-based company normally handles about 30 shipments a week, but last week, no trucks were available to move any freight orders.

"They (drivers) are afraid," she explained. "They figure they may get shot. They say it's not worth the risk."

drivers the option of staying off the road. Only those who have taken his offer.

In Williams' opinion, the company trucks are no safer on the road than the independents. Some truck identification signs are almost impossible to read as trucks speed down the interstates, and nails or debris thrown on the road do not discriminate against certain trucks.

Company trucks will not escape the same financial crunch of the pending tax and highway use fees, Williams said. The average tax will rise from four to nine cents per gallon in April; and the annual $240 highway use fee for trucks will jump to $1,900 by 1989.

The tax applied to a truck driver is a recent television report in which a truck driver estimated he took home only about $22,000 of a $35,000 or $60,000 year's gross income. "I would say he's doing good," Williams observed.

Truck owner Wells, sitting out the shutdown in Madison, described the trucking industry as a highly competitive "cut-throat business" since federal deregulation laws went into effect. And he expressed doubts about how much of the new federal highway revenues will actually be used to improve roads. He called the present interstate highway system "a mess."

Wells, a former truck driver, has been through two other major trucking strikes, the 1979 Teamsters strike and the last big bloody strike in 1967. B & V Transport, as a precaution, however, has given all his company

If the strike continues much longer, two of three area grocers questioned think shoppers will begin to notice a difference in food prices. Williams Kozak of Kozak's Market, on Nameoki Road, was not overly concerned about prices or supplies on Friday, and noted lettuce and produce prices already are "up just a bit."

If the strike continues, however, "prices could go out of sight," he said. For that to happen, he thinks the strike would have to continue for another two or three weeks, but he does not think the government will let the strike last that long.

According to Kozak, the problem is that food is expensive to keep inventories as low as possible to make a profit, and that the practice could translate into quick shortages with increased demands.

Harvey Cohen of Cohen's Foods, 2301 Illinois Ave., agreed that the biggest problem now is in the area of fresh produce. He does not entirely blame the independent truckers' shutdown for the situation, however, citing recent severe weather in the West and South as partly to blame for produce shipping problems.

"At this time, there is no shortage," Cohen said Friday. He also estimated the shutdown will "undoubtedly affect supplies somewhere down the line."

Only Schnucks Market manager Roger Taylor remained optimistic about the possible effects of the shutdown. "I don't think it's going to be a problem at all," he predicted.

4th annual health fair during April

Dates have been set for the fourth annual Health Fair in the metropolitan St. Louis area — April 17 through 24. Sites will include St. Elizabeth Medical Center in Granite City.

The fair, again sponsored by KSDK, the American Red Cross and the General American Life Insurance Co., is available to anyone aged 18 or over. It is aimed at making individuals more aware of their health through a series of basic tests, plus counseling and referral information.

Marlyn Ratkin, project director of Health Fair '83, said that at each of 50 sites there will be basic tests for height, weight, blood pressure, visual acuity and anemia, plus counseling and referral.

Several other tests, such as blood chemistry, lung capacity, diabetes, sickle cell anemia, podiatry and glaucoma, will be available at some of the locations. All tests are free, except the blood chemistry, for which there is a $8 fee. Nursing, allied health and lay volunteers will staff each site.

The first three Health Fairs served more than 48,000 people.

TRUCK IS DAMAGED

Lloyd McCoy reported to Madison police that his truck was entered and the ignition lock punched at it was parked on the lot at Kreider Chevrolet in the 1600 Collinsville Ave., Madison, between Monday and Thursday at 5:20 p.m. A cassette tape player also was stolen.

board member Dale Arnette and Velda Taylor, port district office manager, both with their backs to the camera. Others at the table included Walter "Buck" Simmons, chairman of the port board; Rich Kearns, president of Fox Industries and Jim Peters of the C. D. Peters Construction Co. Carl Ranft, executive director of the port district, also was in attendance, but was seated at another table.

THROUGH THE FILES

Compiled from the pages of the Granite City Press-Record

At the meeting of the Chamber of Commerce last evening the chairman of the committee charged with a report on the salary ordinance now before the council which will make the city and township one, brought out the idea that there is a growing sentiment for what he called "Dollar-a-Year" men to fill the public offices. Another man wanted to know why the office of Mayor and Supervisor could not be filled by one man at one salary. The latter suggestion still contains the "spoils" conception of public service. The demand for the abandonment of the "spoils" plan is gaining rapidly.

The reporters on the Press-Record who converse with divers and sundry persons daily report that nearly everybody has something to say on the subject. It is roughly estimated that the salaries of schools and public service in Granite City at this time exceeds all other incomes.

An 11-inch snowfall nearly paralyzed the Quad-Cities Friday, and sub-freezing temperatures still making traveling hazardous today. A thaw began late this morning, but the temperature outlook indicates much of the snow may remain for several days. It was the biggest snow storm here since November 1951.

Snow started to fall with a mixture of rain and sleet as many workers and students were leaving their homes. The rapid snowfall continued steadily for a 10-hour period, with some flakes the size of small snowballs. Temperatures fell to three degrees above zero last night to leave the community in the icy grip of the elements.

"Steam plumes from the coke quench water tower" at Granite City Steel have become not only a visual nuisance but the result of a $130,000 improvement in the plant's environmental control system," Donald F. Cairns, vice-president, said today. "There has been a significant reduction in the amount of coke dust escaping in the steam that results when quenching water sprays pour down on carloads of burning coke," he commented.

Designed by the company's Department of Environmental Quality Control, and installed on top of the quench tower, the baffles system consists mainly of three grids of lowered wood slats that knock the pollutants from the steam. "The baffles trap contaminants instead of letting them escape freely into the air. The result is whiter, or more pollution-free, steam plume," Dr. Cairns said.

'Dynasty' too rich to be a soap

By NANCY ANDERSON

HOLLYWOOD — Most actors in so-called soap operas, accept the term "soap" with pride, even if the drama airs at night.

But not Gordon Thomson, the handsome Canadian who's joined the cast of handsomely staged, "Dynasty," playing a mystery man who may or may not be Joan Collins' long-lost son.

Sure, "Dynasty" has all the ingredients of a soap: continuing plots and subplots; unseemly sex; sordid scheming; characters who are not necessarily whom they appear to be; emotional confrontations, and cliff-hanger situations.

Thomson, who used to be in "Ryan's Hope" which he unabashedly accepts as a sudsier, claims that "Dynasty" doesn't qualify as a soap opera, "because it's too rich."

"I think of it as a gothic serial. I don't like the term soap for prime time."

On the other hand, Thomson isn't at all ashamed of having been in a soap opera and says he has "the greatest respect for anyone who can do it."

"On 'Ryan's Hope,' we shot 15 pages a day. On 'Dynasty,' we shoot only seven."

"But that's not the only difference between prime time and a day time show. 'Dynasty' has a lot more scope, because it has the freedom film gives you as opposed to the restriction of tape."

A Canadian, Thomson grew up in Montreal where he attended McGill University, but he now considers Toronto home.

He's intensely loyal to his country. Nevertheless, he's critical of its attitude toward its own entertainment industry and its actors which drives them to other countries to get recognition.

"Canada is bursting with talent," in Thomson's opinion. "But Canadians don't appreciate it. In Canada you find a lack of trust in native sons."

To the disappointment of young ladies who've spotted him on "Dynasty" and are panting and sighing, Thomson is married. He gardens for a hobby and is a pet fancier with a dog and several cats.

As for the media in which he prefers to act, he says he's pleased to be acting anywhere.

"There's more unemployment among actors than in any other class," he thinks. "Good acting is good acting wherever you find it: in prime time, in daytime or in politics."

From having worked across the country and around the world, Robert Ginty has reached two conclusions:

First, the United States of America is the finest nation on this planet.

Next, powers in Hollywood and New York don't know enough about its citizens.

After working in Europe and the Orient, and from his contacts with just plain folks in America, he's convinced that most moviemakers don't understand their audiences. This, he adds, also applies to television producers.

"The population is growing, but audiences are getting smaller all the time," he says, "and that should tell us something."

"What's happened to the Frank Capras of the film industry? Capra told American stories."

Pointing out that "if all the music you ever heard was the Musak in an elevator, you'd have a very limited idea of what music is," Ginty holds that filmmaking would be improved if it were spread into new intellectual and geographical areas.

"You don't need studios to make movies, and you don't need $40 million to make one."

"Kids shouldn't go to the University of Southern California and the University of California at Los Angeles to learn the business. They should stay in their home towns and make films about what they know best."

"Our greatest playwrights wrote about themselves and the regions they came from."

"But people tend to believe that a person from Minneapolis or St. Louis can only succeed in the picture business if he goes to Hollywood and makes a film about New York."

In the recent past, pictures have taken him to Spain and Thailand where he made "Gold, Part II," a sequel more or less to a Roger Moore movie.

"They told me I was replacing Moore because I'm younger," Ginty laughs, "but it was really because I'm cheaper."

His film "The Exterminator" has been setting house records in France.

So, altogether, Ginty is becoming an international star a la Charles Bronson.

He doesn't claim that his pictures are masterpieces, only that they entertain and sell tickets.

"An actor has to work to earn a living, especially if he has a family as I do," Bob says. "To keep working, I've had to do a lot of things, but fortunately I've never had to do anything that embarrassed me."

Conaway's wish comes true

By ALAN L. GANSBERG

HOLLYWOOD — When he left "Taxi," JEFF CONAWAY was hoping for a series of his own, and his wish has come true.

Jeff can be seen these days wearing chivalrous clothes on the soundstage as Prince Greystone, the good guy, on "Wizards & Warriors," a show CBS should premiere this spring.

"Wizards" is an hour show that is supposed to take place "500 million years in the future," according to Jeff. "It's supposed to be after what is referred to by the characters as 'The Great Change,' which I suspect is something like a nuclear holocaust."

What this means is "Wizards and Warriors" is medieval times the second time around.

"The show attracted me to start out with because it was different," Jeff remarked. "It's not your doctor or cop show. Also, the mix of drama and comedy is a great challenge for an actor. And besides, I get to play the hero, which I've never really played before."

Prince Greystone is supposed to be the hero of heroes, who is often saved by his magic sword. So great a hero is he that the producers have decided he can never be dirty or appear to sweat.

The other side of the coin is Blackpool, the villain, who has enslaved a wizard to help him in his dirty deeds. The villain's goal is clear. He wants to control the world.

"Another thing that attracted me to this role is that he is not the kind of hero I had when I was growing up," Jeff continued. "When I went to the movies as a kid it was all anti-heroes, BRANDO and JAMES DEAN. I don't think they were the greatest way to have a hero. I want one who's cool, but also pure. No square. Maybe the kids will follow his example."

Prior to beginning production on the series, Jeff starred in a film, "Dream World," which is awaiting release. His character is a man who made his fortune in video games, who becomes involved in the world of modeling.

Off the set, Jeff can be seen writing music for what he hopes will be an album, or coaching a soccer team on which son EMERSON plays.

"I like to spend as much time with RONA and Emerson as I can," he noted. "Emerson got a small part on one of our episodes and it turned out his first day of work was 22 years to the day that I got my first job when I was 9."

And Jeff has one more passion that would probably unite him with many other heroes — he can't stop playing video games.

After his success with "Gandhi," RICHARD ATTENBOROUGH says he'd like to direct a film about Thomas Paine, the American writer of "Common Sense." And Sir Richard wants BEN KINGSLEY — his Gandhi — to play Tom as well.

Look for Kingsley, PAUL NEWMAN and DUSTIN HOFFMAN as top contenders for the Academy Award this year.

MARY MARTIN's first Hollywood job after her tragic car accident is a guest spot on an upcoming episode of "The Love Boat."

You may not believe this one, but word is that MICKEY ROONEY is planning a series entitled "Judge Andy Hardy," in which he'd take the character that made him famous in the 1930s and update him as an upstanding citizen.

JENNIFER O'NEILL and JESSICA WALTERS have joined the cast of the NBC series "Bare Essence."

MARY STEENBURGEN's feature, "Cross Creek," should be out in the fall. At about the same time she's due with her second child with husband MALCOLM McDOWELL.

Two old pros have joined together to do a weekly TV project of some sort — and mum's the word. DANNY THOMAS and SIR CARL LARSEN have teamed in such an effort.

HOLLYWOOD HEADLINERS

Michael Landon admits he's campaigning hard against drug abuse because one of his daughters had a serious drug problem which she has overcome.

Landon says he also became a pill addict when he was a young actor.

While he was making "Bonanza" he began taking a "relaxant" recommended by a doctor, and became hooked to the degree that he was taking 50 pills every three days.

He says, "I was turning into a marshmallow."

He also says, "It was extraordinarily difficult to get off — I was able to do it because God wanted me to."

Stacy Keach will play Mike Hammer in the upcoming CBS-TV movie "Murder Me, Murder You."

Mariette Hartley happily reports that she now has her own TV series, adding "Garner, eat your heart out."

The CBS show co-stars Bill Bixby, and has the working title "Good Night, Bean Town."

Mariette thinks it will go in the "M-A-S-H" time slot.

Tatum O'Neal, who's now 19, is a first-rate cook. She bakes a delicious cranberry pie, and also has a light hand with cranberry muffins.

Rachel Ward, who plays the key role of "Maggie Cleary" in ABC's "The Thorn Birds," will marry one of her co-stars, Bryan Brown, in April.

Actors Brett Cullen and Bryan Brown went to sheep-shearing school for two weeks to prepare for a sheep-shearing contest scene in the mini-series "The Thorn Birds."

The two
